

29. The King's Highway

Seize life! God takes pleasure in your pleasure! Each day is God's gift. Make the most of each day. Ecclesiastics 9:7-10 TMB

I am heading down the King's Highway today, but without a roadmap. I am a professional on assignment. There is an invisible route ahead of me, winding through my day. Transport congestion, rowdy students, lunch and the journey home, followed by my evening - all await me. But through all this seeming randomness and flux is a pathway requiring revelation. When sunshine reveals what was previously an undistinguishable snail's trail across the garden, it feels magical. I need divine light to see the silver trail leading across my day. Like an eagle riding invisible currents of air, I need to feel with my feathers, passage by passage, how and where to proceed. And yes, I do accept that sometimes the paths of righteousness lead through The Valley of the Shadow, but I trust they also eventually lead to an exit also.

So the adventure begins as I walk towards the doors of the institution where I teach. I am going to enjoy this day regardless. I intend to frolic a bit and fool about and play. I am prepared to make a bit of a fool of myself for The Master - in the way lovers have always made fools of themselves for the one they love most.

Chocks away, onwards on the Shepherd King's Highway!
