Right down her back was a straight line where the two wings met. Belinda was a shiny Christmas beetle with six long legs and two feelers. She was very proud of her beautiful colours...so beautiful that she could almost have been used as a decoration on a Christmas tree. Belinda would spend most of her day climbing gum trees and munching on the juicy green leaves. Sometimes she would see beautiful spiders' webs shining in the sunshine. "How I would love to touch a beautiful spider's web," she thought, but knew she mustn't, as her father and mother had told her NEVER, NEVER TO GO NEAR SPIDERS' WEBS. "A spider's web is very sticky," they would say. "If you touch it you will get caught in it and not be able to get out again."

The donkey that helped Jesus – from Stories of faith 2	Errors	Self-correct
Jesus was always helping others, but this time He needed some help. He asked his two friends to go and get the donkey. Now getting a donkey may seem like an easy job, but this donkey had never been ridden before. A donkey that has never been ridden usually bucks and kicks the first time someone sits on its back because it's not used to the heavy weight. Like a horse, a donkey has to be trained to take riders and heavy loads. The two friends of Jesus knew that the donkey had never been ridden. They might have been wondering whether the donkey would kick them as they untied it. They may have thought, 'What does Jesus want with an untrained donkey,' but even though they didn't understand, they obeyed. They did exactly as Jesus said, without arguing or complaining, and to their surprise, the donkey came with them very willingly. It didn't even buck when they laid coats on its back.

When we were young (Stories of Faith 3)	Errors	Self-correct
If you have a young brother or sister, you will know that they are still learning to do many things. A new born baby can't do much at all except cry, eat and drink. At four weeks old the baby learns to smile and to make different sounds. Soon the baby will be saying words like 'mamma' or 'dadda'. Imagine that you have a baby sister. By the time the baby is two years old, she is starting to get into lots of mischief. She will grab anything within reach. The rest of the family have to be patient with the baby and move things out of the way. Mum and Dad are always saying 'no' or 'you can't have that.' The baby doesn't understand why. She just wants everything. Older people understand. The baby is too young to know how to treat things. She might break a cup or glass. She might chew on the something that is not good for her. Jane had a baby sister. One-year-old Beth stood on her feet, holding on to Dad's hand. Beth was looking at Mum. "Come on," said Mum, holding out her arms.

James – Stories of Faith 2	Errors	Self-correct
James was always getting into trouble at school. He didn't have many friends. He thought that by doing naughty things, everyone would notice him, but it didn't really help people to like him. He was always causing trouble. The teacher didn't know what to do about James. James's Mum just didn't know what to do either. It would soon be school holidays, so it was decided that James would go and spend two weeks with Grandma and Grandpa. James liked staying with Grandma and Grandpa. Grandpa was his special friend. James loved to make things with Grandpa in the workshop. Grandpa was really good at making things, and he would show James how to use some of his woodworking tools. "How would you like to make a little sailing ship?" asked Grandpa. "That would be great!" said James excitedly. Day after day the two worked together in the workshop. "What are you two making?" asked Grandma. "It's a surprise," said James. They worked in the little ship for three whole days. James sanded the base of the little ship until it was very smooth. Then Grandpa drilled some holes for the masts.

The woman at the well	Errors	Self-correct
Jesus loved all people. Jesus showed kindness towards people who did wrong. He tried to help them. He tried to show them that God would forgive them if they were truly sorry. There is a true story in the Bible about a woman who Jesus met at a well. People did not have taps in their houses in those days so everyone had to go to the village well to get their water. It was a meeting place where women would talk together as they collected their water in their clay jars. There was one woman who everyone talked about. She was not a good woman. She lived with a man who was not her husband. For that reason no one talked to her. There was another reason no one talked to this woman. She was a Samaritan. Jewish people did not like people from Samaria. However, there was one person who did talk to her. That was Jesus. "Will you give me a drink from your water jar," asked Jesus. "I am thirsty and don't have a water container myself." The woman was surprised. "Why are you talking to me?" she asked. "You are a Jew and I am a Samaritan." Jesus told the woman of the special gift that God could give her. Jesus could forgive her and give her a special peace and joy inside. Jesus called this gift 'Living Water'.

Bilivucu	Errors	Self-correct
Bilivucu had become a very keen Christian and he wanted everyone else in his village to become Christians. “You really should follow the Christian way, my friend,” he would say to people. “My life has changed such a lot since I believed in Jehovah God. One day, he got so angry that he grabbed the nearest thing he could find. It happened to be a cooking pot. He smashed it over Bilivucu’s head, sending him home with a very bad headache. Bilivucu sat in his house wondering what he should do. “I try to tell this man good news, and all he does is hit me over the head with a cooking pot,” he said to himself. “It wouldn’t be so bad if he hit me with a club. At least that’s a man’s thing. But to hit me with a cooking pot! That’s a woman’s thing. You shouldn’t hit a man with a woman’s thing.” “I feel like hitting him with my old war club hanging there on the wall,” was his first thought. But then he remembered, “No, I’m a Christian now. I won’t hit back.” He had hung the war club on the wall when he became a Christian to remind himself of what his life had been before that. On the floor beneath the club was his Bible. He took that instead. As Bilivucu thought on the words from the Bible his anger left him and his heart was filled with joy.

Elikana	Errors	Self-correct
“There’s a big storm coming up over there. I hope we can reach Rakaanga before it hits us,” observed Elikana anxiously. He was the leader of a group of nine people who were paddling home by canoe to Rakaanga from Manihiki, a journey of about thirty miles. They had been attending a special conference of their church in the Penrhyn Islands group, about 1000 miles north-west of Tahiti. There were six men, two women and a child in the group. It was the year 1861. “That’s Rakaanga straight ahead. You can just see the mountain through the rain over there. Perhaps we can get home before the storm hits,” said another man. The men strained hard to steer the canoe. The wind blew stronger and colder. The rain-filled clouds rolled across the waves towards them, blocking their view of the island. Suddenly the storm hit their vessel and they were being tossed about on a raging sea. Powerful gusts of wind tossed the canoe about. Darkness fell as the men worked hard to keep their vessel on course for Rakaanga but the strong winds were against them. “Let’s turn and go back to Manihiki,” suggested one of the men, an experienced sailor. “The wind is blowing us that way, anyhow.” The others agreed, so they turned the canoe about and steered it all night in the direction of Manihiki, or so they thought. By daybreak the storm had passed, but to their dismay, when the sun rose there was no sign of land anywhere.

The Gospel Goes West	Errors	Self-correct
The Tongans, Fijians and Samoans were all great sailors. They built huge canoes to enable them to travel on the open ocean, between island groups. Before the coming of Christian missionaries to the islands there were established trading routes between Tonga, Fiji and Samoa. They had developed settlements on certain islands on the way; where there were trees growing that provided suitable timber for building their canoes and making other artifacts. After the great spiritual awakening in Tonga in the mid 1830s the newly converted Christians, went on their trading journeys with the new message. "Believe on the great Creator God and Jesus His Son." Their very lives were sufficient witness to the people on the other islands that the Christian message was truly life-changing. The Tongans told how their life in the community had changed. The love of God through Jesus had brought peace and forgiveness to people's hearts. There was peace between former enemies; villagers were living in harmony together instead of fighting. This sounded like a much better way to live, and there were many who came to believe on Jesus through the witness of these Christian traders. Many Fijians in the out-lying islands to the east received the Gospel message first through these Tongan and Samoan traders.

William Bromilow of Dobu, Papua New Guinea	Errors	Self-correct
The people of Dobu stood on the sandy shore of their island, talking excitedly among themselves as they watched a large, three-masted schooner anchor off-shore. Some, more daring and curious, took to their canoes and paddled at a safe distance, but close enough to watch all the strange activity on the large ship that had unexpectedly appeared. “Who are these people?”  “Why are they coming on to our island?”  “What are all these things they bring with them?” Dobu is a small, ‘inactive’ volcanic island east of the Papua New Guinea mainland. The only experience the Dobuan people had with Europeans was an occasional visit from the government administrator or his deputy in their steamship. Now they were witnessing a totally new event, the arrival of a large party of missionaries whose call was to teach the Christian message of salvation to the people of these islands. The party was led by Dr. William Bromilow from Australia, accompanied by four other men who would be stationed on other islands in the vicinity. There were also twenty-two South Sea Islanders from Tonga, Fiji and Samoa with wives of a number of them. “We’ve never seen so many white people before,” remarked the Dobuans. “What are they doing here in our place?”  “See how they cover their bodies with all that stuff. It must be hard for them to move with all that on them.” The Dobuans were fascinated with the European clothing!  “Look at the things they are bringing ashore. What will they do with them?”
