Story 1: The seven days of Creation.

Read or tell the story from Genesis 1.

Discussion

Revise the sequence of events in the seven days of Creation.

On the sixth day God created land animals and man.

Why was man special? (Read Genesis 1:26-30)

God said that He would make man in His image. Just as God can think, choose, decide and create, so can we. By placing people in charge of the plants and animals, God was giving them an opportunity to make choices and decisions. One of Adam's first jobs was to choose names for all the animals. Read about this in Genesis 2:19-20.

Story 2: Adam names the animals

The children sat around the campfire on a clear starry night. They loved to go camping with Grandpa. They especially loved these times when they were allowed to stay up a little later than usual. They would cook food over the fire. Then Grandpa would tell a story.

"Twit-twoo," they heard from the bush.

"That's an owl," said Grandpa. "Listen carefully and you might hear some other night animals. The bush is very active at night you know. Many animals are awake at night time."

The children all listened carefully.

"There's a sound," whispered one.

"That's a morepork owl," whispered Grandpa. "He gets his name from the noise he makes. Listen."

"How did the animals get their names anyway?" asked Hannah.

"Well," said Grandpa. "I'll tell you the story. It's a very old story actually. It's as old as the Creation itself."

"After God made the world," went on Grandpa, "He made a man called Adam. One of the first things God asked Adam to do was to give names to all the animals...not just the land animals but the birds and fish as well. God did this because He wanted Adam to know that animals were created to help humans. Some animals were tame and some were wild, but whether tame or wild, Adam was to take care of them. God wanted Adam to name the animals so that he would get to know them, and also, so that he would realise his responsibility in taking care of them.

It must have been fun for Adam to think up names for the animals. Just imagine. 'That one with the long neck... I'll call him a giraffe... and what could I call that funny animal that looks a bit like a duck and a bit like a beaver. I'll have to call him a platypus... and that friendly one...I think he would like to be my special friend. I'll call him a dog.'

Adam spent a long time naming the animals. He remembered what God had told him: "You shall rule over all the animals of the earth."

Adam knew what God meant. He was to look after all the animals. He was to be God's caretaker. What a responsible job that was. Adam felt happy that God had given him the ability to make choices and decisions.

Discussion

God created the animals so that we could enjoy them. Some animals provide for us. Some animals are just good friends. God wants us to take care of all the animals in His creation.

1. We should remember that when God first created the animals, there was no killing, because sin had not yet entered the world. Adam, Eve and all the animals ate only plants. Write the bible verses that tell us this. (Genesis 1:29-30).
2. Read the verses that tell us that Adam named the animals, (Genesis 2:19-20). Write the part that tells us that Adam named the animals.
3. How does the morepork owl get its name?
4. Make a list of some of the choices and decisions that Adam had to make, (e.g. He could choose right from wrong; to obey or disobey God.)
5. What did God mean when He said that people would rule over the animals?
6. Give some examples of ways in which people can take care of God's creation, including animals.
7. Name two animals that are endangered today, and explain why they are endangered.

Introduction

Ask someone to choose an item of food, a toy or any other article from a page of advertising material, or collection of pictures.

Explain

God could have created Adam and Eve like robots. He could have made them to think and act exactly as HE wanted them to. However, God did not do this. He gave them a mind to think with. He gave them the ability to make decisions for themselves. He gave them a conscience too, so that they would know the difference between right and wrong.

The problem came when Adam and Eve did not listen to their consciences. They knew the right thing to do. They knew that God had forbidden them to eat a certain kind of fruit, but they chose to disobey.

Story 1: Adam and Eve disobey

Read or tell the story from Genesis 3:1-14 and 21-24.

Adam and Eve chose to disobey, and the children born to them disobeyed God as well.

Story 2: Another wrong choice

Adam and Eve had two sons. They called their first son Cain, and the second one, Abel. When the boys grew up they helped their parents to grow food and look after the animals. Cain became a farmer. He grew grain and fruit and vegetables. Abel became a shepherd.

It was the custom in those days to bring an offering once a year to say 'thank you' to God for providing everything they needed. They built a special table called an altar, and placed upon it their gifts to God. Abel brought a lamb, and Cain brought some of the produce that he had grown.

God was happy with Abel's gift because Abel had chosen to love and obey God. God was not happy with Cain's gift because Cain did not love God. Cain chose evil. He knew in his heart that God was not happy with him. He also knew that God was happy with Abel. Cain became angry and jealous. He was jealous of his brother who always chose good.

God is Creator

When God created people, He gave them the ability to think and choose for themselves. He wanted people to be responsible, and to make good choices. One of the first things Adam had to do was to name the animals. He had to choose names for them. The next choice was a bit more difficult. Adam and Eve had to choose between good and evil. That is, between obeying God or disobeying God. I wonder what choice we would have made. Because of one wrong choice, the whole of creation suffered. People made more and more wrong choices. Cain's wrong choice was just one of many more to follow.

In this story, Cain made many wrong choices. It seemed that one wrong choice led to another. Firstly, he ignored God's ways. Then he allowed jealousy to grow in his heart. This finally made him kill his brother. The next step was lying to God.

Introduction

We have to make choices and decisions every day. Some choices are easy to make. Others are not so easy.

Do you sometimes find it difficult to choose what to wear?

If you were allowed to choose one thing from a toy catalogue for your birthday, would you find it difficult?

Do you find it difficult to choose what to eat when you go to a restaurant?

There are other sorts of choices too. If a group of children are saying unkind words about someone in the playground, you can choose to join in, or not to join in. If someone in the playground is lonely you can choose to make friends with that person, or to ignore them.

In these sorts of choices we should ask ourselves, "What would Jesus choose?"

When Jesus lived on earth He always obeyed His Heavenly Father. When we ask Jesus to be in charge of our life, He helps us to choose what is right.

Adam and Eve knew the right thing to do but disobeyed. Cain knew right from wrong too, but he also chose to do the opposite to what his conscience told him. Today, people keep on choosing to do wrong things. This is why all people need God's forgiveness.

There were many people in Bible times who did obey God, just as there are many people today who obey God. Moses was one of these people.

Story 1: Moses obeys God's call.

God had a special plan for Moses. Find out about this from Exodus chapters 3 & 4.

What was this plan? (Exodus 3:1-10)

Was it easy to obey God's command? (Exodus 3:11 & Exodus 4:19)

Moses did obey, even though it was very difficult for him. God gave Moses many signs to let him know that the Lord was with him. Because Moses obeyed, God was able to use him to set the Israelites free.

Can you think of times when it may be difficult for us to obey God?

Story 2: Joshua asks the people to choose

Moses continued to be faithful in obeying God. He led God's people to the Promised Land. However, it was Joshua who took the people into the Promised Land. There were enemies that had to be conquered first, and God chose Joshua to lead the Israelite army into battle against the enemies. When the enemies had been conquered God told Joshua that he could rest. Joshua was an old man by this time.

There were twelve Israelite tribes. These were large family groups. Three of the tribes were already settled on the land on the other side of the River Jordan. Nine tribes still needed a place to make their home. God told Joshua to divide the land among the nine tribes. When all the land was divided, Joshua called the tribes together. Now that his work was finished, Joshua had some final instructions for the people. He wanted to remind the people that they must always worship the true God. The Israelites were going to be living in a land where people around them worshipped false gods. Several times before, the Israelites had fallen into the trap of worshipping false gods. Joshua told the Israelites that they must make the choice now. Would they choose to serve the Lord?

Read about this in Joshua 24:14-27.

Think

Adam, Eve, Cain, Moses and the Israelites were all faced with choices. Try to think of some choices that people could be faced with today in every day life.

EXAMPLES: to forgive or not to forgive; to be honest or dishonest.

3rd Person:

I really don't know why he/she helped me. I've always been nasty to them. Guess I'll go and thank him/her.

Story 2

Nabor the Aboriginal

Many true stories are told about the help that Australian Aborigines have given to white people. The story of Nabor is one of these.

The Australian Aboriginal people did not understand the ways of the first white people, who arrived on the Australian shores over 200 years ago. The Aboriginal people had their own laws which they kept with great care; but the white man's laws were new and strange to them.

When the white people took over the land, many of the past hunting-grounds of the Aboriginal people were lost to them. Since they could no longer hunt for kangaroos and other animals, they, being hungry, took the white man's animals instead.

Sometimes too, they would raid an outback hut, and steal the food. The white people, who needed the food themselves, tried to put a stop to this.

Once, a policeman and his party of 'black trackers' set out to catch four Aboriginal people who had broken the law and raided such a hut. They caught them and fastened them one to the other with chains about their necks. Then the policeman and the trackers, with their captives, set out for home. The captives walked by the police horses.

Now, heavy rains had fallen since the police party had set out, and they found that a small river, which they had crossed before was already in full flood.

On the return, the party had to cross this river. The policeman had told the captives to swim while he and the black trackers went across on their horses. He then undid the chains, and these hung down loosely from their necks. Each of the captives then wound the loose chain about his neck and under his arms.

Then they dived into the water. The captives were all strong swimmers, and all swam the flooded river quite safely. So also did the black trackers. The policeman, however, seemed to have disappeared.

Then they saw that he had been thrown from his horse. He and the horse had both been caught in the strong current. They watched the policeman struggle back to his horse, but the terrified animal kicked him. The policeman fell back into the water unconscious. Already the current was carrying him away. It seemed almost certain that the flood would cost him his life.

Suddenly, Nabor, one of the captives, wound his loose chain about himself and ran along the river bank in the same direction as the current was going. He noted the spot where the policeman was, and running past it, dived into the flooded river. He swam and struggled against the current, until he managed to draw nearer to the policeman.

Even when he reached him the struggle wasn't over. Nabor was tiring, and the chains about him felt heavy. It was hard, in the strong current, to keep the policeman afloat and struggle toward the bank.

The other Aboriginal men had run to the nearest spot, and, as Nabor struggled toward the bank, they took the policeman from his arms and put him carefully on the ground. He lay quite still.

The rest of the party stood and looked down at the one white man among them. He was so pale and still that even then they thought he might die. Then suddenly Nabor wound his loose chain around his arm and disappeared.

He ran straight into the bush; not to escape, but to get help for the white man. For three miles he ran, until he found some white men. With them he hurried back again. These men were able to help the policeman, and soon he looked less pale and began to speak to them. Later he was able to go on his way. When the party reached the police station, the policeman told the story of Nabor's bravery.

This true story was told in the newspapers. When the story reached England, the King decided that Nabor deserved a medal, and ordered that one should be sent to him.

From the Victorian Education Department Reader, Third book. (Author unknown)

Discussion

Do you think the policeman deserved Nabor's act of kindness?

Even though Nabor had probably never read the words of Jesus, he was actually doing as Jesus commands us. Read this in Luke 6:27-28.

Nabor also gave us a true example of what it means to love your neighbour. How is the story similar to the story of the Good Samaritan?

Perhaps Nabor was given his name because of the kindness he showed to all people...even his enemies.

Story 1: Who do we love?

Mr. Lane was a very rich man. He also was a Christian and went to church each Sunday. He always drove his big car and wore a nice suit.

One Sunday morning when he got up he found his paper had not been delivered as usual. He quickly put on his old trousers and jumper and went to the garage. His daughter's small car was blocking his own car, so he got her keys and drove the small car to the newsagent.

Coming back, Mr. Lane got a puncture, so he changed the tyre. He got a bit dirty and it took him much longer than he thought it would. It was nearly time for church. If he went home and changed into his suit he would be late.

He decided to go to church as he was. He brushed the dirt off as best he could and drove the small car into the church yard. To his surprise, as he went into the church, the sidesmen did not greet him warmly as they usually did. He sat in the same seat as usual. A lady he knew came up to him but as he was about to say 'Hello', she said, 'You can't sit there. That's Mr. Lane's seat.' Before he could say 'I am Mr. Lane', she had rushed off.

Mr. Lane was absolutely astonished. People did not seem to recognise him without his suit. As he got into his daughter's car after the service he smiled and waved at a man he knew. The man gave a polite wave but looked at him as if he had never seen him before.

Mr. Lane was quite upset. Were people really interested in him, he wondered, or just his money? How would they treat someone new who was not dressed in a suit?

Mr. Lane thought about it all the following week. He decided to go to another church the following Sunday. This time he again drove his daughter's car, and he deliberately wore old clothes.

Even though the people at this church had never seen him before they were very friendly. Mr. Lane has been going to that church ever since.

Story 2: Caroline Chisholm

Caroline Chisholm came to Australia in the early 1800s along with many others new settlers. She was married to a sea captain called Archibald. Although originally from Britain, Caroline and Archibald had worked in India, helping British soldiers and their families. They were very excited as they left India to come to a new land. The first European settlers had arrived in Australia only 50 years before.

"Where will we be living, Archibald?" asked Caroline.

"We will be at Sydney, the largest town. My duty will be to help guard the convicts who have been sent out from the over-crowded prisons in England."

When they arrived in Sydney they found it to be a busy, bustling sea-port with narrow, unpaved streets. The horses and carts had churned up the dirt roads so much that they were scarcely useable. Some of the people were rich. They had fine horses and elegant carriages. There were also some wealthy land-owners with well-built homes, but most people had tumble down shacks, or small dingy houses to live in. However, hundreds had no homes at all. They slept under trees or in the shelter of rocks. This is what worried Caroline. She was especially concerned for the young women and girls who had no home.

"Why are there so many young girls on the streets all day and night?" Caroline asked the wife an officer.

"Oh, my dear, the government in England sends out these immigrants. They are expected to find work and a home when they arrive in Sydney, but there's not enough work for all the people who arrive here," was the reply.

Caroline decided that she wanted help the young women. She took as many as she could into her own home, but there were hundreds more sleeping on the streets and in the parks.

"Something must be done!" she said to Archibald. "These girls need a big home where they can be sheltered and protected. I'm going to see if any of our friends can help me do something for them."

At first no one was helpful. Then after a lot of persistence, Caroline finally persuaded the governor to allow her to use an old building for the girls. The walls were cracked and it was rat infested. The only light was from her own candle.

Caroline poisoned the rats and cleaned up the old building as best she could. Soon she had ninety young women to care for. She asked friends to give food to feed the girls. She then tried to find jobs for the girls. Many of the jobs were on farms in the country. The girls, who had come from the crowded cities of England, were too afraid to go to the country on their own, so Caroline went with them. The roads were rough and there were rivers without bridges to be crossed. The hot sun would beat upon them and the rain poured into the open cart. Bushrangers made the journeys dangerous. These men would often hold up travellers in order to rob them.

As time went on Caroline worked at bringing together again the families of convicts. Many people had been imprisoned for small crimes like stealing a loaf of bread. As punishment, these people had then been sent to Australia to work. They were therefore separated from their families. Caroline arranged for wives and children who had been left behind in England to join their fathers and husbands in the new colony.

Caroline is remembered most of all today for her kindness to needy young women, at a time when their troubles were ignored by everyone else. She loved God and shared His love with others, giving up her own comforts to help those in need.

Discussion

How did Caroline carry out the words of Jesus in Matthew 25:35-36?

What can Christians learn from her example?

Is it possible to help the poor because we think we SHOULD, and not really love them?

Read Galatians 5:22-23. Think about the fruit of kindness.

Caroline Chisholm chose to be kind when others around her couldn't be bothered.

Sometimes we have to make an EFFORT to be kind. It is easy to ignore those who need our kindness when everyone else is ignoring them.

Here is a situation:

Ben is sitting by himself in the playground. He can't join in the game because he has a permanent disability and has to use crutches.

Which is easier...

- To go and join the others... (after all, everyone else is ignoring Ben.)
- To go and spend some time with Ben

Activity

Show the fruit of kindness by being an 'angel' to someone this week. Do not let the person know that you are going to be their angel. Plan ways of showing kindness towards that person, but do your acts of kindness in secret. You can do anonymous jobs for them, or make gifts for them. Write the person's name on the gift and leave it in a place for them to find. You could also make message cards. Write something that would make the person feel happy. It could be a verse from the Bible.

Review the Fruits of the Spirit: goodness, love, kindness and patience.

Think about another fruit: faithfulness.

Faithful love never gives up. That's how God's love is towards us. He never gives up loving us. God wants us to be faithful in our love towards others too.

Story: Ruth and Naomi

Long ago, in Old Testament times, lived a man called Elimelech and his wife Naomi. Their home was in Israel, but during a time of drought, they moved away from Israel to a land where there was more food. The new place was called Moab. Although there was plenty of food there, the people who lived there did not worship God. Naomi's two sons grew up and married young ladies who worshipped other gods.

Then one day something very sad happened to Naomi. First, her husband Elimelech died, and then her two sons died. Naomi's heart was filled with sadness. She was lonely too. She had heard that the rains had come again to Israel, so decided to go back to be among her own people.

Naomi told the wives of her two sons. The wives names were Orpah and Ruth. They wanted to come with Naomi. They all got ready for the journey and started walking.

After a while, Naomi stopped. She turned to her two daughters-in-law and said, "You have been very kind to me. Do not feel that you must take care of me any longer. You are young and I am old. Go back to your own people and be happy."

Orpah kissed Naomi and then went back to her own people. But Ruth did not. Naomi said, "Look, Orpah has gone back to her people and to her gods. Go and follow her."

What was Ruth's reply?

Find out from Ruth 1:16-18

So Ruth and Naomi went back to Israel. They got there just at the beginning of the grain harvest. In those days people were allowed to gather the left over grain from the fields, after the farmers had cut it. This is what Ruth and Naomi did. What ever grain they picked up they were allowed to keep for themselves.

One day Ruth went into the fields of a very rich man named Boaz. When Boaz saw Ruth working in his field he wanted to find out who she was. One of the field workers said, "Her name is Ruth. She came with Naomi from a country far away. She asked me if she could pick up grain in our fields for herself and Naomi."

Then Boaz went over to Ruth and said, "I have heard about you, Ruth. I have heard of your kindness and faithfulness to Naomi. I am glad to have you as a worker in my fields. You may drink from my well and eat with the women who work for me if you wish."

Ruth thanked Boaz. Boaz told his workers to leave some grain so that Ruth and Naomi would have plenty to pick up.

Boaz grew to love Ruth very much. One day he asked Ruth to be his wife. Ruth loved Boaz too and was happy to marry him. Ruth and Naomi went to live at the house of Boaz. The Lord was happy with Ruth for being so faithful. He gave Ruth a little son named Obed. Obed became the grandfather of King David.

Discussion

Look at the two greatest commandments given to us by Jesus. (Read Luke 10:27)

Ruth obeyed both of these commandments. She could have chosen to go back to her own people who worshipped other gods, but instead she chose to follow Naomi who worshipped the true God. In doing this she was showing that she wanted to love God with all her heart. She also showed a great love for Naomi by deciding to go with her to a new land.

To love someone faithfully as Ruth did, means that we never stop loving. God is like that. People sometimes stop loving, but God never stops loving us. He is always with us, by our side.

The Bible says that there is a friend who is closer than a brother. (Proverbs 18:24) That friend is Jesus.

Think...

Which of these would be examples of faithful love?

Person 1

"Darren has better toys than my best friend James. I think I'll play with Darren instead."

Person 2

"Amanda is not very good at ball games. Never mind. She's a good friend so today I'll do what she wants to do."

Person 3

"It's too boring visiting Grandma. She's too old to play with me these days. I think I'll stay home."

Seeing through the eyes of Christ

(A play reading)

SCENE 1

Mum:

"How was your day at school?"

John:

"O.K. I guess. There was a new boy there today."

Mum:

"What was he like?"

John:

"Awful Mum. Nobody likes him. He is dirty and he looks at you with a real mean look every time you go near him."

Mum:

"Did anyone talk to him? You should try to get to know him a bit. Maybe he was just not feeling too sure of himself."

John:

"No way. He'd probably punch anyone who went near him."

Mum:

You and your friends seem to know this boy pretty well, considering that not one of you has spoken to him."

John:

"Well, sometimes you just know."

Mum:

Maybe what you need is for Jesus to help you see this boy differently."

John:

"What do you mean?"

Mum:

"Well, God wants us to LOVE other people."

John:

Oh, but He doesn't mean this kid."

Mum:

"Why not?"

John:

"Well, I'm sure he's not a Christian. He swears! I've heard him, Mum. He's a real creep."

Mum:

God wants us to LOVE others...Christian or not."

John:

I can't. He's not my type. Besides, the others would think I'd gone off my rocker if I started to be friendly with him."

Mum:

"If you asked God to help you, I'm sure you'd be able to see this boy with new eyes."

John:

"What do you mean?"

Mum:

"Just try it."

SCENE 2

That night in bed...

John: (praying)

"O.K. Lord. I guess I don't really feel too good about the way I've treated Sam. But I can't really help not liking him much. If you want me to like him you're going to have to help me see him differently."

Asleep and dreaming... two children wearing glasses...

Child 1:

"Hey, these new glasses are terrific. Suddenly I see the whole world differently."

Child 2:

"Yes. Isn't it great? I don't know why, but suddenly I find myself talking to people who I previously had no time for, and I'm enjoying it! There's a lot more to these people than I ever imagined."

Child 1:

"They make me feel all warm inside, and there's so much I could just never see before I had these."

John:

"Hey, where did you get those glasses? Can I try a pair?"

Child 2:

Oh, I'm sorry. They're all specially fitted by the Teacher. They only fit the person for whom they're made. Even then they have to keep going back for re-adjustment."

John:

"That must be a bit of a nuisance."

Child 2:

"Oh, no. It's terrific. Every time we go for an adjustment, we come back able to see more and more wonderful things that we've never been able to see before."

John:

"Wow! I'd like to get a pair of these glasses. Are they expensive?"

Child 2:

"Oh no they're free."

John:

"Well, tell me where to go and I'll get a pair. Who is this Teacher? Where does He live? He'd give me a pair wouldn't he?"

Child 2:

www.beaconmedia.com.au

"Well, that depends."

John:

"On what?"

Child 2:

"On whether you really want them."

John:

"Of course I want them. I said so didn't I?"

Child 2:

"But there's a price."

John:

"But you said they were free."

Child 2:

"Well, yes and no. You have to WANT to see people differently, as the Teacher sees them. He only gives glasses to those who believe in Him, and want to be like Him, and see like Him. If you see like the Teacher, you will no longer see people the same way as some of your friends do."

John:

"That's a problem. Maybe my friends won't like me if I see things differently to them. But I do WANT these new eyes. I do want to see differently."

Child 2:

"O.K. Let's ask the Teacher."

John:

Where is He?

Child 2:

He's everywhere and hears every word we say. Just ask Him to give you those special eyes."

John:

"Please Sir, let me see things with Your special eyes."

(Looking around:) "Wow! I've got them. Let's go and try them out."

Child 2: (taking John to meet the new boy...)

"I think you know this boy."

John:

"Hello. I'm sorry we were all so mean to you yesterday. Where do you live? Maybe I could show you around the district after school today."

Sam:

"O.K. I'd really like that."

John: (to himself...)

"Wow! What's happening to me. That's the same boy I saw yesterday. He's not too bad after all. In fact I really like him. It's like a dream."

SCENE 3

Mum:

"Wake up John. You're going to be late for school."

John: (groping around...)

"Where are my glasses?"

Mum:

"John, you've never worn glasses in your life. What are you talking about?"

John:

"The Teacher gave me His glasses so that I could see people in a new way...Ooh, it was only a dream."

Mum:

"Maybe not John. Did you pray the way I suggested last night?"

John:

"Well, yes."

Mum:

You may not be able to see the glasses, but perhaps they are there all the same."

John:

"You mean Jesus will help me see people differently?"

Mum:

"Why not?"

Discussion

It is easy to be kind to those who treat us kindly. How about those who are unfriendly towards us? Should we still make an effort to be kind towards them?

Think about the fruit of gentleness.

Are we always gentle in the way we speak to others?

People can be hurt just as much by words as by actions.

God wants us to be loving in all that we say, even if the other person has spoken unkindly to us.

Story: The woman at the well

Jesus loved all people. He didn't just favour the good people. He didn't criticise people, as the Pharisees did, for failing to keep the laws. Jesus showed love and kindness towards people who were hated by others. Zacchaeus was one. Jesus showed kindness towards people who did wrong. He tried to help them. He tried to show them that God would forgive them if they were truly sorry. Jesus offered forgiveness to everyone who asked for it, no matter how bad they had been.

There is a true story in the Bible about a woman who Jesus met at a well. People did not have taps in their houses in those days so everyone had to go to the village well to get their water. It was a meeting place where women would talk together as they collected their water in their clay jars. There was one woman who everyone talked about. She was not a good woman. She lived with a man who was not her husband. For that reason no one talked to her.

There was another reason no one talked to this woman. She was a Samaritan. Jewish people did not like people from Samaria. However, there was one person who did talk to her. That was Jesus.

"Will you give me a drink from your water jar," asked Jesus. "I am thirsty and don't have a water container myself."

The woman was surprised. "Why are you talking to me?" she asked. "You are a Jew and I am a Samaritan."

Jesus told the woman of the special gift that God could give her. Jesus could forgive her and give her a special peace and joy inside. Jesus called this gift 'Living Water'.

Jesus knew how the woman lived. It was not God's way. He told her about her life, but not unkindly. The woman was surprised because no one had ever told Jesus these things. She knew that Jesus was special. "Could He be the One sent from God?...the One that the Scriptures spoke about?"

She knew that Jesus was the One. Yes, she wanted the 'Living Water'.

Think about ways in which you would prepare for these things:

a) a family holiday

Make a list of the things you would need...

- for a summer camping holiday by the beach.
- for a holiday in the snow.

b) different kinds of weather

How do people prepare for bushfires? droughts? hot sun? floods? cold weather? snow?

c) earthquakes

How do people measure the likelihood of an earthquake in a particular area? How do people prepare for it? What precautions would be taken by town planners? What kind of buildings might be chosen in earthquake prone areas? How might an earthquake drill be carried out in a school? What preparations would be made by emergency services?

In order to prepare for the future we need to think ahead. Thinking ahead is being wise and responsible. It is opposite to being lazy.

Proverbs 19:15 says that laziness makes us sleepy. It prevents us from being aware of the future. Can you think of ways in which you can be wise and responsible around the home?

The Bible also gives us an example of little creatures which are very responsible. Read about them in Proverbs 6:6.

Story 1: The Ant and the Grasshopper

One lovely summer day a grasshopper was sitting in the sun singing with all his might. Nearby an ant was struggling along carrying a grain of wheat.

"Isn't it a beautiful day?" sang the grasshopper. "Why don't you sing like me?"

"I'm too busy," muttered the ant as he scurried along.

"What are you too busy about?" asked the grasshopper.

"I'm getting ready for the winter," replied the ant as he put a grain of wheat into his little store hole. Then off he went to fetch some more food.

"Well, I think you're silly," said the grasshopper as the ant returned with another grain. "As long as the sun shines I shall go on singing."

And so he did. But it wasn't long before Autumn came, and then Winter. The sun no longer shone and the cold winds blew. The green grass had turned to brown. Soon it became covered with a light dusting of snow. The leaves had fallen from the trees and had blown away. There was nothing to eat. The grasshopper was shivering with cold and was dreadfully hungry.

The ant, however, was snug and warm inside his hole with all the good food he had collected.

"Please give me some of your food," the grasshopper called down the hole. "I am so hungry."

"No, I can't," said the ant. "I should like to help you, but it has taken me all my time to collect this food and I need it to last me the winter. I have none to spare for anyone else. You should have prepared for the winter as I did."

From Aesop's Fables

Discussion

1. Why did the grasshopper think the ant was silly?
2. How did the grasshopper feel when winter came?
3. Why couldn't the ant give the grasshopper any food?
4. Why could you say the ant was wise?

Ants, like many other creatures, prepare for the future by storing up food. They are wise little creatures because they work hard and think ahead. God says that people should learn a lesson from the ant. People can be prepared for the future by inviting Jesus into their lives. Then, no matter what happens in the future God will be with them. Christians can prepare for the future by storing God's word in their hearts. (Read Matthew 6:19-21).

Story 2: The Wise and Foolish Builders

Read or tell the story from Matthew 7:24-28.

Discussion

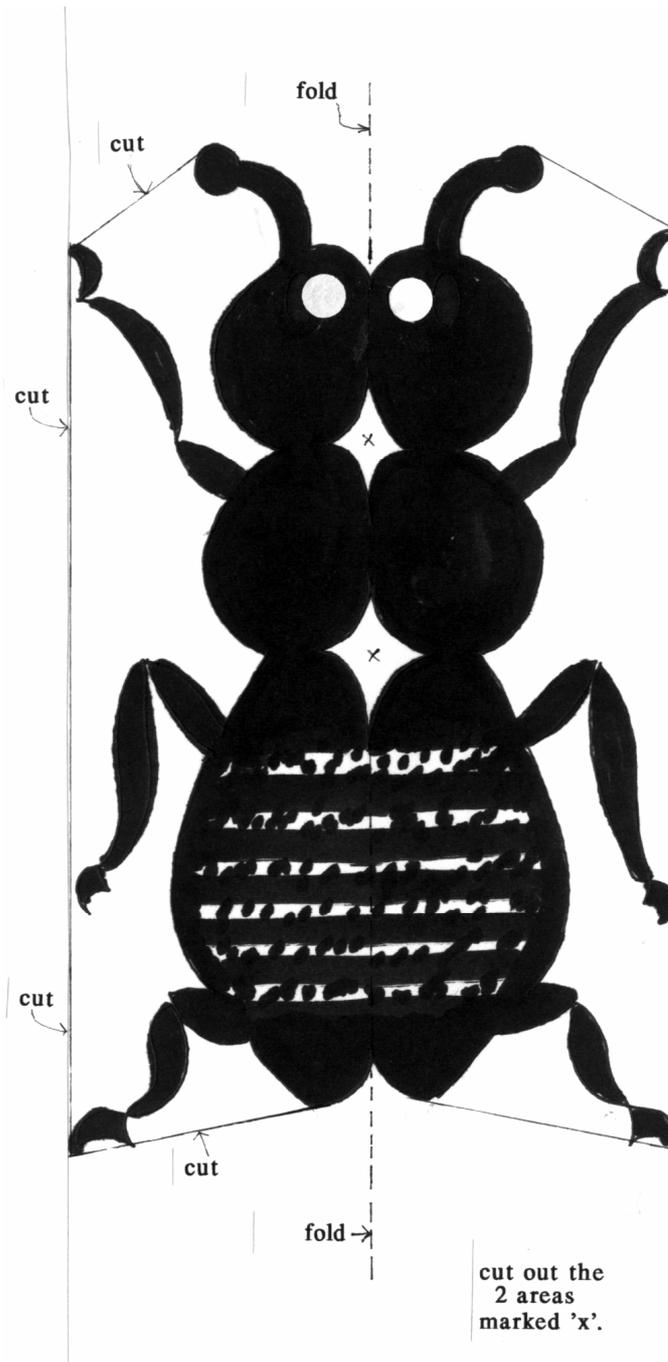

Do you think that the foolish builder really believed that the floods would come? He probably thought that building on the sand was easier anyhow.

Perhaps many people refuse to build their lives on Jesus, the solid foundation, because they don't believe they will ever need Him. They think that it is easier to live a life doing exactly what they want to do, without having to give any time to God. Is this wise thinking?

Discussion

Think about ways in which children prepare for being a grown-up. Going to school is one way of preparing for the future. You learn things at school that will help you to get a job one day. When you finish school there is still more to learn. Nurses, architects, pilots, teachers and astronauts all need much preparation for their jobs.

Story 1: Be Prepared

Astronauts must train on earth before they can go into space. They practice working under water, because floating in water is like floating in space. They work, eat and drink inside a full-sized model of a spacecraft which is submerged in a huge water tank.

They must also practice for lift-off and landing. A machine called a centrifuge spins the astronauts around very fast. Spinning gives them the same hard push they will feel when their spacecraft lifts off and zooms upward.

Astronauts need to be very fit. They prepare their bodies by intensive exercise programs. There is lots to know about the space voyage and operating the spacecraft so they spend a lot of time learning and studying.

For some astronauts, the experience of being in space causes them to think about the wonder of the creation. For one astronaut named Charles Duke, his time in space brought him closer to God than ever before. As he thought about the great God of the universe, he suddenly realised that he was not prepared to meet Him. Although he had spent so much time preparing for the space voyage, he had never given time to God. It was because of this voyage that Charles decided to give his life to Jesus.

Story 2: The ten girls and their lamps

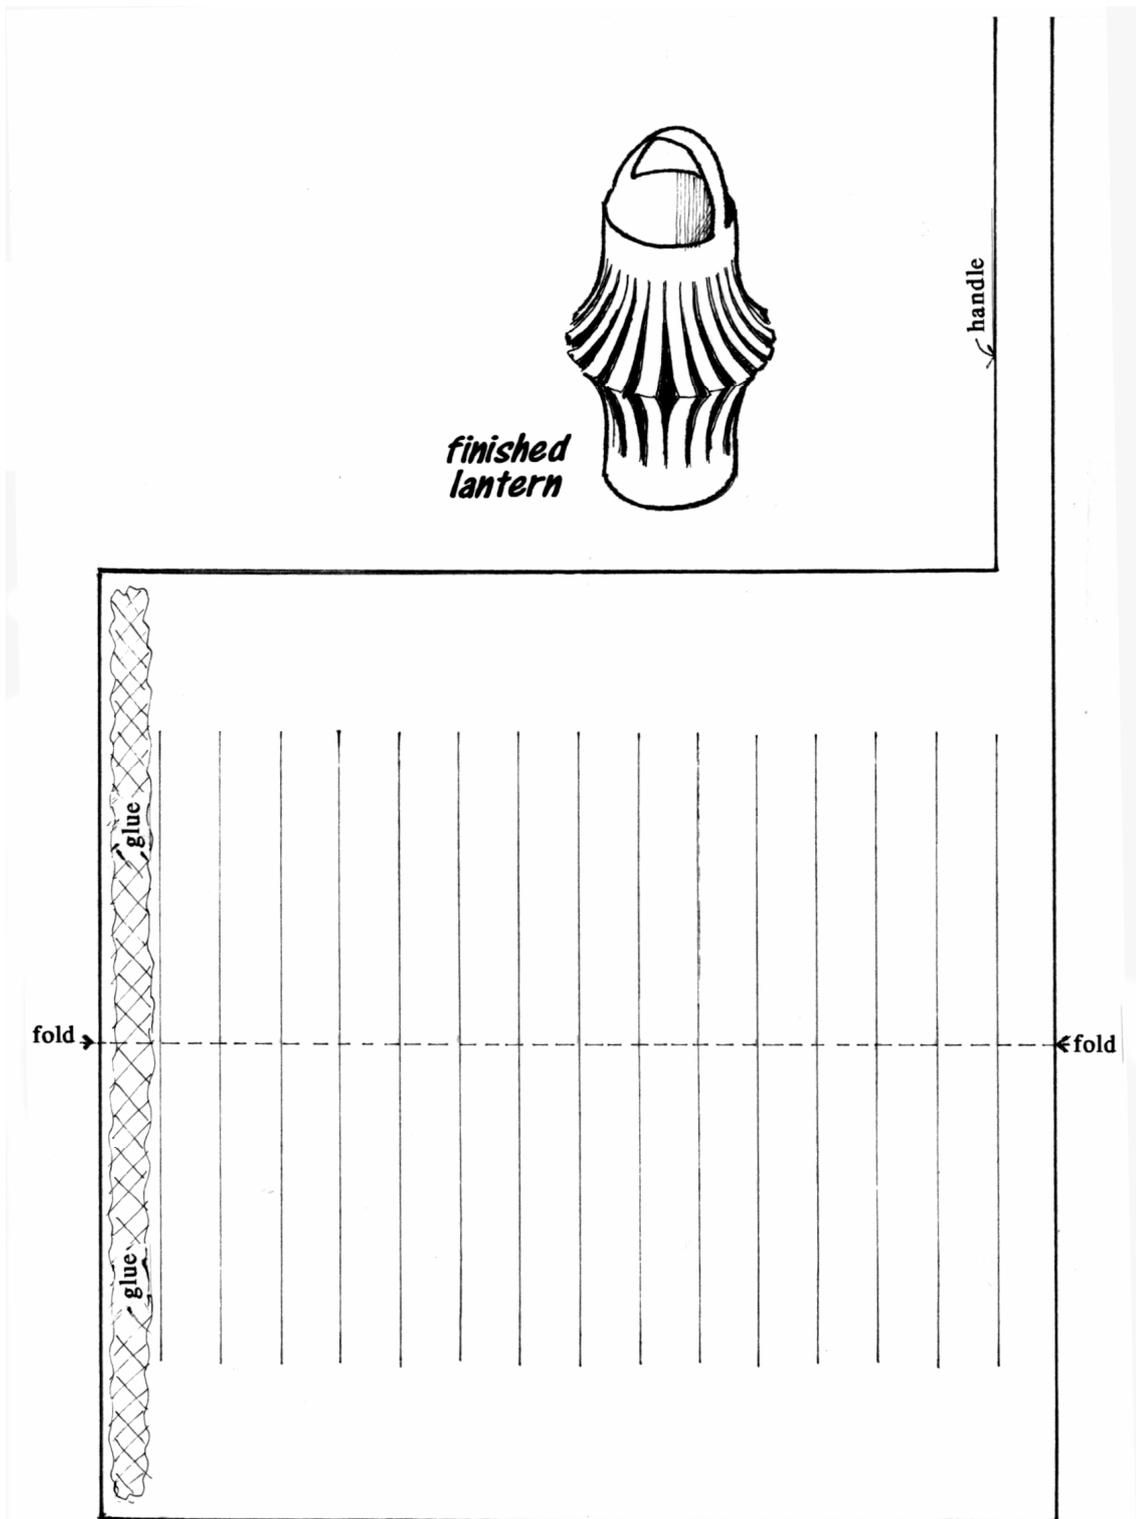

This is a parable about some girls who were not prepared for the future. Read the story from Matthew 25:1-13. Five were prepared for the journey but five were not.

Jesus wants us to prepare our hearts for the future. We can prepare our mind by learning and we can prepare our bodies by healthy eating and exercise, but there is only one way to prepare our heart. Find out about this from Revelation 3:20.

Five of the ten girls were not prepared for the future. Jesus told this story to show us that we must be prepared for the day when He comes again. We will be prepared if we have asked Jesus to forgive us for our sin and to be our special friend.

Introduction: angels

In this exercise children will act out the role of an angel. You will need some pre-recorded instrumental music, (preferably music that will create a calm atmosphere.)

Children work in pairs. One child in each pair is a guardian angel to the other person. While the music is playing, the angel leads his/her partner on a journey, using mime to warn the other of the dangers along the way. For example, the angel can signal when to stop because of danger, and when it is safe to continue. The angel can point out obstacles to walk around or jump over. Sometimes the angel may go ahead of their partner indicating that the partner must follow. Sometimes the angel may allow the partner to move freely, but keeping a watch for dangers.

Discussion

What are angels?

Why did God create them?

Which people in the Bible saw angels?

Angels were often sent as messengers. Sometimes the message was for the safety of that person. For example, Joseph was warned of Herod's intention to harm the baby Jesus. He was told to escape with Mary and the baby into Egypt.

Angels mentioned in the Old Testament often protected God's people against the enemy. In Old Testament times, God's people had many enemies. The enemies worshipped false gods, and were always wanting to destroy God's people. Here is a story about a time when God sent angels to save them.

Story: God's army of angels

The king of Syria wanted to make war with Israel. He organised his men to set up camp in a place where they could easily capture some of the Israelite soldiers.

There was an Israelite called Elisha who had the special gift of being able to hear messages from God. God told Elisha what the king of Syria was planning to do. God told Elisha where the Syrian camp was. Elisha went straight to the Israelite king to warn him. The Israelite army were able to keep well away from the Syrian camp, so the Syrians couldn't capture them.

The Syrians tried again and again, but each time the Lord showed Elisha their plans. Each time they avoided the Syrians. Finally, the Syrian king called his soldiers together and said, "Which one of you is a spy, and telling the Israelites our plans?"

One of the soldiers replied, "There are no spies amongst us, but there is an Israelite named Elisha who hears messages from God. He knows your plans and tells them to the Israelite king."

The Syrian king was very angry. He found out where Elisha lived. The king and his men came by night with their horses and chariots and surrounded the town where Elisha lived.

The next morning, when Elisha and his servant got up, they saw horses and chariots everywhere!

"Don't worry," said Elisha. "We have more soldiers with us than they have with them. (But the servant saw no soldiers with Elisha, as the Israelite army was based in another place called Samaria.)

Then Elisha asked God to open the servant's eyes. God opened his eyes and he saw horses and chariots of fire, there with them on the mountain. It was God's army of angels. God had sent his angels to fight for Elisha.

Then Elisha spoke to the king of Syria. "Is it Elisha you are looking for? He does not live here. Let me take you to him."

The king and his army followed Elisha all the way to Samaria without realising that it was actually Elisha they were following. Elisha led them right into the Israelite camp. When the Syrians realized where they were they were terribly afraid. There were now more Israelite soldiers than Syrians.

"What shall we do?" the Israelite king asked Elisha. "Shall we kill them?"
"No," said Elisha. "Let them go free."

So Elisha sent the Syrian army home, and they did not bother the Israelites for a long time after that.

Who does God protect?

Would He protect a bank robber?

God has an army of helpers who watch over God's children. Who are they?

Act it out

Two nasty characters are scheming an evil plot. They are hiding in a lane way and intend to rob the next person who walks down the street.

Mr. X walks along. He is a Christian.

God knows about the robbers' plan, so sends an angel to tell Mr. X to go another way.

The next person to walk along is a policeman. He spots the two robbers and takes them off to the police station.

Story: Three men in the fiery furnace

Daniel was a man who faithfully served God. Like Elisha, he had the special gift of hearing what God had to say.

The king, in those days, was king Nebuchadnezzar. One time, when Daniel was away, the king made a huge golden statue. He set it up on an open plain and commanded that everyone bow down and worship the statue.

Read Daniel 3, verses 4-6.

What would happen to anyone who didn't worship the statue?

If Daniel had been there he would have refused to worship the statue. Daniel was not there, but his three friends were. Their names were Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego. Like Daniel, they loved and obeyed God, and of course, refused to worship the golden statue.

What happened when the king found out that they would not worship the statue?

Read verses 13-15.

Still they did not worship the statue. What happened next?

Story 1: An angel saves Peter

King Herod had previously tried to kill the baby Jesus. Now, some years later, he was throwing the followers of Jesus into prison. Peter was one.

King Herod intended to persecute Peter. This meant Peter would be whipped or stoned for being a Christian. However, God sent an angel to protect him. The angel helped him escape.

Discussion

Who was praying for Peter's protection? (Acts 12:5)

Does God expect us to pray for protection?

Think of some situations where we may need to pray for protection.

Some Christians go as missionaries to places where there are poor conditions and contagious diseases. Others have taken Bibles to places where Christianity is forbidden. If caught speaking about Jesus or giving away Bibles they would be in serious trouble.

Story 2: Tomorrow you Die

(A true story)

Introduction to the story:

Find the country of Albania on the map. Briefly discuss the problems faced by Christians in country where Christianity is forbidden.

Reona Peterson and her friend Evey had a dangerous mission to accomplish. God had called them to take His message of love into the country of Albania. In 1973, when this story took place, the Albanian government had a strong hatred for Christians. People were forbidden by law to believe in the God of the Bible. People were expected to honour and obey the government above everything else. Reona had been a teacher from New Zealand, and Evey, a nurse from England. The only way they could get into Albania was with a tour group. Tour groups were seldom allowed into Albania, but the two ladies finally found a French group leaving for Albania that summer.

They boarded the bus in Paris, travelled through France, then Italy and Yugoslavia. As they crossed the border between Yugoslavia and Albania, they sensed the danger that lay ahead. Through the bus window they could see a cluster of white concrete buildings and a large red and black flag fluttering from a flag pole. Without warning, the bus stopped. Within seconds they were surrounded by soldiers with guns at their sides. All those on board were asked to get off. Clothing was checked carefully. Anyone with bright, conspicuous clothing had to change immediately. Luggage was searched, then visas checked.

Finally they were on the bus again, heading for their hotel. On arrival, they were assigned three to a room. Reona and Evey were joined by a British woman named Mary.

"This is my second trip to Albania," said Mary. "On my last trip, six years ago, two members of the group were interrogated for carrying Christian books and leaflets. That's the thing they're after."

Reona and Evey froze as they thought of the small New Testaments and Christian leaflets they were carrying in their shoulder bags. The bags had concealed compartments where the Bibles and leaflets could be hidden quite well.

After a few days the tour party visited the city of Tirana. The guide surprised everyone with the news that they had two hours walk in the city. The tourists were allowed to go off on their own instead of being supervised as usual. There were several parks in the city. Reona and Evey made their way to these, leaving Christian leaflets on benches, on tops of hedges, or on walls of fountains. While walking in the city they met a man who spoke French. This was unusual, as most people here spoke only Albanian. Both Reona and Evey knew some French so they were able to tell him about Jesus.

"I know it and believe it," said the man in French. He was a secret believer. How glad he was to meet some other Christians.

One night, towards the end of the tour, Reona and Evey were returning to their hotel, when Reona felt ill. She had a terrible night with severe stomach pains. By morning, she knew that she could not join the party for the two-day excursion, which had been planned. Evey would have to go alone.

At lunch time, a woman came into the room with a food tray. Reona knew what she must say try to tell the woman about Jesus. Tears came to the woman's eyes.

"Me Christian too," she said in broken English.

Reona gave her a New Testament.

About four O'clock there was another knock at the door. Reona was expecting the waitress again, but instead it was a stern-faced man who demanded that Reona come down stairs for interrogation.

Grabbing her dressing gown she followed the man downstairs to a small room where a special chair awaited her. A copy of a New Testament was placed on the table in front of her.

"Have you seen this before?" asked the chief interrogator.

Reona said that she had.

"The one who received this from you has betrayed you," said the interrogator.

Reona did not believe this. The truth was that the Christian waitress had left it lying about somewhere.

"Why did you come to Albania?" continued the interrogator. "Don't you know that no one in Albania believes in God? You will never see your family again. You are a traitor to our government, and traitors are shot. We will come for you at nine O'clock tomorrow morning."

Photographs were taken, and Reona was led back to her room. Reona lay on her bed and prayed, "Lord Jesus," she said, "It will be a privilege to lay down my life for you."

When the next day arrived, Reona was interrogated once more. Then the tour party returned and Evey was interrogated as well. During Evey's eight hours of interrogation she tried to take every opportunity to talk about God.

"Don't mention God again!" roared the interrogator angrily.

The French tour guide knew the situation the women were in and tried to be helpful. He assured them that he would do everything he could to try to get them released.

The next morning, Reona and Evey were told that they would be released.

"We will drive them to the border and leave them there. Never again will they be allowed to enter Albania," was the announcement to the group. However, after the group departed, the women were interrogated again.

"So you thought you were free! There are still more questions for you to answer," said the chief.

Had the announcement of their release just been to fool the group into thinking they were free? Did the authorities have other plans for them?

Finally they were given some forms to sign concerning the crimes they had committed, then they were ushered into a car. The car drove for about half an hour and then stopped. The ladies did not know where they were being taken. The two interrogators got out and the car continued. Could this be the road leading to the border, or was it leading to a prison?

Finally they passed through a town that they recognised. They knew they were only half an hour from the border. On arriving at the border their passports were stamped, 'PERSONAE NON GRATA', (a person forbidden to enter the country again).

"You may go," said a voice.

The two women walked through the gates into 'no-man's land'. This was an area of swampy country between Albania and Yugoslavia, a zone belonging to neither country. The Yugoslavian border was still about ten kilometres away. How could they ever find their way?

It was not long before a car pulled up.

"Taxi?" said a young man.

"No dinar," said Reona, meaning 'no money'.

The car drove back in the direction that it had come. Soon the car returned. The young man got out, took their suitcases and motioned to the women to get in. This time they did not argue. The taxi drove them to the Yugoslavian border for no cost. "Why would a taxi driver do this?" they wondered. "Was he an angel in disguise?"

From here, another driver offered them a ride to Italy. They did not know the driver, but at the end of the journey he pushed into their hands a large number of silver coins. They had exactly enough money for the bus and train fare back to Switzerland, where Christian friends had been praying earnestly for the safety and protection of the two women.

Can you guess which insect this is?

It has a long body and four beautiful wings that shine in the sunlight. The wings reflect the colours of the rainbow. It lives around rivers, ponds and dams, and darts around with quick movements.

Answer: a dragonfly

The dragonflies that you see flying around on a sunny day did not start their life as such beautiful creatures. They actually began as little grubs that crawled around the muddy bottom of the dam. As the little grubs grew, they gradually changed into beautiful dragonflies.

Can you think of another creature that changes from a grub into an insect with beautiful wings?

Answer: a butterfly

Jesus chose twelve men to be His closest friends. When Jesus called these men, they had to change their way of life. For Peter, Andrew, James and John, it meant giving up their fishing nets and becoming followers of Jesus.

Story 1: Under New Management

"Dad, John's shop is all different!" said Josh as he raced in the door after getting the milk from the shop.

"Different?" asked his Dad.

"Yes, it has all been changed around while we've been away," said Josh. "John is still there, which is good. But things have been moved around. And the shop's been painted a different colour."

"Does it look better?" asked his Dad.

"I think so," said Josh. "It is better set out, and cleaner. But I am so glad John still there. It wouldn't be the same without him."

And, there's a sign in the window, "Under New Management," added Josh. "What does that mean?"

"Well, I suppose it means that John still runs the shop, but he does not own it," explained his father. "The man who did own it has sold it to someone else. It looks as if the new owner made some changes."

"But it's still John's shop, isn't it?" asked Josh.

"Yes, if John is running it, it's still John's shop," agreed his Dad. "It's just that different people actually own it."

We read in the Bible in the book of Acts, that the disciples were under new management after the Holy Spirit came upon them. Things were different for them. That was clear from their changed lives. No longer were they frightened. Now they had a purpose. They knew what they had to do. Now they were determined to speak about the Lord Jesus, even though to do so would probably mean persecution and imprisonment.

Discussion

Just as the Holy Spirit changed the lives of the disciples, He can change lives today. What differences might we notice about someone who has just become a Christian?

Story 2: Saul Becomes A Christian

Saul was not one of the disciples. In fact he hated Christians. He hated them so much that he persecuted them. However, something very unusual happened to him. Read about it in Acts 9:1-21.

Saul's life changed so much that God chose a new name for him. From then he was called Paul. We can also read about others in the Bible who had a change of name to show that their life had changed. One of these was Simon the fisherman, whose name was changed to Peter.

Not everyone has a change of name when they become a Christian, but they can have a change of life.

Introduction

Find a task that is extremely difficult, e.g. unscrewing the lid of a jar which has been placed on very tightly; or untying a very difficult knot.

Discussion

There are some things that we find to be very difficult. Not just physical things, but other problems. Let's think about problems at school. Maybe it's a problem with school work. Maybe it's a problem with friends.

Whether our problems are big or small, God has the power to change things. When the problem is too big for us, by His power, He can find an answer to the problem.

Here are two stories about people who had problems.

Story 1: Naaman's Problem

Naaman had a big problem. It seemed as if there was no answer. It seemed as if his trouble would never go away.

Naaman had once been a strong healthy man. He had been commander of the king's army. He and his wife lived in a beautiful home. They were very rich. He used to be very happy. Then one day he became ill with an incurable, contagious disease called leprosy. A person with leprosy had running sores all over their body. No doctor could cure a leper.

Naaman's blistered and his hands and feet turned white as the dreadful disease started spreading over his body.

Naaman was a Syrian, not a Jew, But he did have a little Jewish servant girl who worked in his house.

"I know a servant of God who could help Naaman," said the little girl to Naaman's wife. "His name is Elisha. "God's power works through him and great things happen when he prays."

Naaman's wife told Naaman what the little girl had said. Naaman decided that he must go to the land of Israel to find this person called Elisha.

Naaman was good friends with the Syrian king. "Go to Israel," said the king. "I will give you a letter of recommendation."

So Naaman went to Israel with the letter, but the king of Israel did not welcome Naaman who was a Syrian. When Elisha heard about the king's visitor he said, "Send the captain to me."

Continue the story from 2 Kings 5:9-11

Naaman did not believe that washing in the Jordan seven times could make him better. He was very angry. However, Naaman's servants helped him to believe.

Read verses 13-15

When Naaman believed and obeyed God's words spoken through Elisha, Naaman was healed. He then understood the great power of God available to those who believe and obey God. God's power was greater than Naaman's problem.

Story 2: The Wedding at Cana

God is concerned about small problems too.

Once Jesus was at a wedding party with His family. Suddenly the drinks ran out. The shops were closed. It was impossible to get more.

Would the host have to serve water? How embarrassing! Mary had an idea. Perhaps Jesus could help!

Read about it John 2:1-12

Discussion

Although the problem faced by the host of the party was not as great as Naaman's, God still cared. Once again, God used His great power to solve a problem.

Whenever you have a problem...big or small...remember that God's power is greater than your problem.

Show a $20 note. How do we know whether the note is counterfeit or not?

People who forge notes try to make the counterfeit note identical to the original in every way. However there are some details that are very hard to copy, and a forged note can be identified by close examination of certain details.

Satan also tries to counterfeit things that are true. Sometimes it is easy to pick out the things Satan does because they just look evil. However sometimes Satan can trick people into following him because he makes things look GOOD. This is why the Bible says he is deceitful.

Read the story from Matthew 4:1-11.

When Satan spoke to Jesus, he appeared to be telling the truth. After all, he was quoting from the Bible. The problem was, Satan was misusing God's word and Jesus knew this.

Introduction: Fool's gold!

Take a stone and cover it with clear glue. Sprinkle gold glitter over the glue and allow it to dry.

Discussion

What is fool's gold?

Some rocks/soils contain tiny gold particles. People are often fooled into thinking it is gold, but really it is another mineral called iron pyrites.

What would you do if you found something that looked like gold?

If you are wise you would first find out whether it really is gold before getting too excited. Finding truth is a bit like finding gold, because truth, like gold, is very valuable. Just as people can mistake fool's gold for real gold, people can also make a mistake about finding truth. Many people think they have found truth, but they don't take time to find out what truth really is. The Bible tells us that Jesus is the truth and other gods are false. Living a Christian life is the only way to find truth.

Some things look great, but they are not at all. Have you ever had an inexpensive toy that has fallen to pieces in five minutes? Satan can make evil things look attractive, but they only make people happy for a short time. This is why the Bible calls Satan a liar and a deceiver. Only Jesus, who is the truth, gives people happiness that lasts forever.

Bible research

How can we KNOW the truth?

Jesus said that the Holy Spirit can help us find the truth. We should ask Him to guide us.

John 14:15-21 and 1 John 5:6

Story: Galileo searches for truth

Galileo lived in Italy from 1564-1642. People in those days believed that the earth was the centre of the universe. They thought that the sun, moon and stars moved around the earth. Because the great teacher, Aristotle, had said that this was so, everyone believed it. Everyone, that is, except Galileo. He was one who wanted to find out truth for himself.

Galileo's brain couldn't rest. He had heard of a boy in Holland who had looked through a tube with spectacle glass in each end, and who found that distant objects looked much bigger. Galileo was determined to work out how this gadget worked.

He soon did. But Galileo's invention was far superior to the Dutch one. Through his telescope he could see Jupiter, which had four moons, Saturn with its rings, the spots on the Sun and the Milky Way. Now that he had seen these things for himself, he was sure that the earth moved around the sun, and not the sun around the earth.

Galileo was very excited. He now understood that God's creation was greater than people had ever realised. Enthusiastically he started telling people of his discovery. However, trouble lay ahead. Galileo was called before the Pope. "How dare you defy the teachings of Aristotle!" shouted the Pope. "You must promise not to talk or write about your theory!"

Galileo kept quiet for seventeen years, but continued working silently. Then finally, he could keep quiet no longer. He published a book of his discoveries. He was brought before the Pope again.

"Deny your theory or you will be imprisoned!" the Pope demanded.

Now quite old, and unable to bear the thought of imprisonment or torture, Galileo decided to agree that he had made some mistakes. But in his heart he knew that he had discovered the truth. Galileo lived the rest of his life quietly, working until his death in 1642. In due time, the world found out that his discoveries were true, for truth cannot be stopped by threats of imprisonment or torture. Soon others took up the teachings of Galileo, which opened people's eyes to the laws of the Creation and the glory of the stars.

Discussion

What does this story tell us about truth?

Brainstorm

Make list of things which have lasting value, e.g. God's word, faithfulness, kindness, diligence, generosity

Game: True or false?

This is a guessing game. A player thinks of an object. Others try to guess it. The player may only reply 'true or false'. Example:

Guesser: "It is made of wood."

Player: "True"

Art/Craft: Make some fool's gold

Scrunch up some yellow or gold paper. Stick it on to a piece of paper or a cardboard base. Add some glitter. Then add a sign: 'All that glitters is not gold' (old proverb.)

Philippians 4:8 Think about the things that are true and honourable.

Ephesians 4:25-32 Speak truthfully about others.

Songs

Introduction

Think about people who brag about their own achievements. These people will often exaggerate the truth in order to impress people. When people exaggerate they are not telling the truth about themselves. They are being dishonest.

Why do some people pretend to be better than they really are?

Act it out

Conduct a mock interview with someone who boasts and exaggerates about their achievements. Decide who this person will be, e.g. a sportsman, a pop-singer.

Discussion (Part A): Believing the truth about ourselves

Being honest with ourselves is simply knowing our own strengths and weaknesses. We don't pretend that we are better or worse than we really are. The Bible says that if we want to be great, then we must serve others. (Matthew 18:1-4)

We must also be truthful to others. (Ephesians 4:25)

Exaggeration is a form of dishonesty.

Discussion (Part B): Believing the truth about others

Should we believe everything we hear about others?

It may not be true. We should find out the truth for ourselves.

Think about this situation:

Two girls are spreading a false rumour about a certain class member. Each person who is told the rumour believes it, and immediately tells another. Soon everyone is teasing that person. Discuss the consequences. How could this have been prevented?

What should you do when someone tells you something about another person?

Game: True/false Bible quiz (A team game)

Prepare a list of true/false Bible statements. Write them on slips of paper and place them in a 'hat'. Form two teams. Team members take turns to select from the hat, one at a time. The team must make a joint decision as to whether the statement is true or false. The team scores a point for every correct response.

Introduction

Light a candle. Try to think of as many uses for a candle as you can.

The Bible says that a Christian can be like a light. What does this mean?

Story 1: Mr. Biggs

There was once a school teacher named Mr. Biggs. He liked his class to be neat and tidy, but could never manage to be neat and tidy himself. He made the children tidy their work area at the end of every day. Everything had to be in place. However, Mr. Biggs's own table was piled high with a mess of papers and books. The mess was so bad that he always had trouble finding what he needed.

Mr. Biggs told the children that they must never drop rubbish in the playground. There was extra homework for anyone who did. However, when Mr. Biggs went to the park or the beach, he just left his own rubbish lying around.

Mr. Biggs told the children that they must never enter the classroom with muddy shoes. However, in his own home he didn't bother to wipe his shoes on the door mat. He just left muddy footprints on the floor for his wife to clean up.

Mr. Biggs knew the right thing to do. He believed in being neat and tidy, but just couldn't manage to be neat and tidy himself.

Some people are like Mr. Biggs because they believe in the words of the Bible. They may believe that being good and honest and pure is what God wants us to be. However, they do not live their lives the way that God wants them to live.

Living the way God wants us to live is called GOODNESS. Goodness is one of the fruits of the Spirit. We may know the right thing to do. We may even tell others what is the right thing to do, but unless we DO it we are not showing the fruit of goodness. When we truly follow the example of Jesus by doing what God want us to do, then we are like a candle which shines brightly for everyone to see. If we say we are a Christian, then we must show it by our actions.

Give to each group member a plain cracker biscuit that is not salty.

Now give everyone another cracker and sprinkle some salt on it.

Discuss the difference in taste.

When does Mum use salt in cooking?

Why do we add salt to our food?

Read Matthew 5:13

When Jesus said that Christians are the salt of the earth, He really meant that Christians should be like a pleasant flavour. Just as people like to taste salty things, people will be interested in becoming Christians when they see God's love and joy in our lives.

Think of ways in which we can bring God's love and joy to other people. Act out some of these ideas.

Bible research

Read 1 John 2:29. If we say we are a Christian, how should we act?

Read 1 John 1:5-7. What does it mean to walk in the light?

Walking in the light can mean that we think before we act. If something goes wrong, do we act in a 'typical' way? Do we do or say the first thing that comes into our head? Or do we stop and think about how Jesus would handle the situation?

Discussion: How should we react?

Here are some examples of things that could happen in every day life. We could react in a good way or in a bad way. Think about how we can show the fruits of the Spirit in these situations. Try to make up your own situations as well.

Simon has spent hours on building something. Little sister comes and pulls it apart while Simon is out of the room. How should Simon react?

a) with anger; wanting to pay back; throwing a tantrum

b) forgiving little sister; exercising self-control; accepting the situation without getting angry

A new girl has come into the class. She is very shy and doesn't look as if she would be much fun to play with. How should the girls in the class react?

a) ignore her and play with old friends

b) make friends with her and include her in your games

A shop keeper gives Laura too much change. How should Laura react?

a) Too bad for the shop keeper. I'm keeping the extra money.

b) I'd better take back the extra change.

Introduction: A patience game

Each person in the group is given a square of paper. The aim is to tear the paper in a continuous strip, and to see who can make the longest 'snake'.

Discussion

Which of these would take the most patience for you?

- putting away all the dishes
- threading a needle
- peeling a kilo of potatoes

In these examples we need patience to things that may be difficult or boring. We also need patience to do things we find difficult. We should not give up until we have finished. However, sometimes we need a different sort of patience. That is, patience with people. We may find some people difficult to get on with. Maybe we feel like shouting or screaming, or even hitting. These are the times when we can show patience towards people. Remaining calm, instead of acting in an angry way is showing self-control.

Act it out

Think of situations that may require self-control. Work in pairs to show the best reaction to the situation.

EXAMPLE

Joshua has spent hours on his model plane. His friend Chris, takes the plane without asking and tries it out. The plane crashes. One wing is damaged. Joshua sees what has happened. He is very upset, but tells Chris that it's OK. He invites Chris to help him mend it.

Bible research

Galatians 5:22

Ephesians 4:32

James 1:9

Story 1: Peter shows his anger

Jesus and his friends were praying in the garden. It was the evening that Jesus would be arrested. Judas had made plans with the chief priests. For carrying out the plan he would receive thirty pieces of silver.

A crowd of men entered the garden. The leader of the group was Judas. Judas walked up to Jesus and kissed Him. This was part of the plan. Judas had arranged to kiss Jesus as a sign, so that the priests would know which man to arrest.

Jesus looked at Judas.

"Are you trying to sell me with a kiss?" He asked.

"Are you Jesus of Nazareth?" the chief priest asked Jesus.

"I am." said Jesus calmly.

Peter was extremely angry. Instead of acting calmly as Jesus did, he drew his sword. He lashed out with the sword and cut off the right ear of the chief priest's servant.

"Put away your sword, Peter," said Jesus.

Jesus could have reacted by fighting too. He had good reason to fight. He was arrested simply for saying that He was the Son of God. He could have acted angrily toward Judas for betraying Him. Judas had once been one of Jesus' best friends.

In all of this, Jesus managed to live by the words He had spoken:

"Love your enemies," He had told His disciples.

Jesus spoke to Peter.

"I could stop these men if I wanted to," He said. "I could pray to my Father and He would send Me a thousand angels to fight for Me."

But Jesus didn't want to fight with words or actions. Instead, He touched the servant's ear and healed him. Then Jesus was led away by the chief priests and Pharisees.

Discussion

When someone does something against us, we can become angry and hurt the other person physically, or with our tongue. Jesus wants us to control both of these reactions. Read Matthew 5:39 and James 3:8-11.

Sometimes, when bad things happen to them, people become angry with God. Really it's not God's fault at all. Here is a story about someone who went through bad times, but continued to trust God.

Story 2: The patience of Job

Job was one of God's faithful servants. Satan knew this, and decided he would cause trouble for Job. His plan was to bring so much trouble into his life, that Job would become angry with God and turn away from Him.

What did Satan do to Job? (Job 2:7-8)

Did Job become angry and turn away from God? (Job 2:10)

No matter how much trouble Satan brought along, Job was patient. He continued to trust God. Finally Satan stopped bothering Job, because he could see that Job was not going to give up trusting in God. God rewarded Job for being faithful. You can read the end of the story from Job 42:10-16.

Discuss the meanings of patience and self-control.

Story: The king who could not control his anger

King Saul had been a good king. He had helped the Israelites defeat their enemies. People sang songs about his victories. However, now the people were paying more attention to David than Saul. David was now the brave hero who helped the Israelites win their battles. David had killed the giant, Goliath, completely unarmed. It was now David who the people sang about.

Jealousy grew in King Saul's heart. It caused him to change from a noble, upright king, to a king who could not control his anger.

David had played music for King Saul, on his lyre. However King Saul didn't like David's music any more. One day, as David sat playing, King Saul suddenly took his spear and threw it at David. David dodged and the spear went into the wall.

From this point on, David knew that he must hide from the king. King Saul remained David's enemy for many years, until Saul finally died, and David became the new king.

Discussion

King Saul had two problems:

He was jealous of David who was so popular with the people.

He became angry.

How do you think he should have handled these two problems?

Look at the different problems which arise when people do not control their anger and greed.

1. Think about anger.

We can act quickly, without thinking, and hurt someone physically. We can also hurt people with our tongue.

Find out what the Bible says about controlling anger:

Ephesians 4:6 and Ecclesiastes 7:9

2. Think about greed.

Being greedy could mean:

- Eating too much at a party.
- Eating too many sweets.
- Spending all your money on things you don't need.
- Wanting all the things your friends have.
- What else?

When you are greedy, others could miss out.

Puppet Plays: Self-control

1. The magnifying glass

Billy: Can I have a go of your new magnifying glass, Betty?

Betty: Sure Billy, but be careful with it.

Billy: Thanks Betty.

(Billy is not careful, drops the magnifying glass and breaks it.)

Betty: Oh look what you've done Billy! You've broken it, you clumsy thing!

(Betty screams, shouts and hits Billy.)

2. Spending

Betty: How much money have you got in your money box Billy?

Billy: About $2 I think.

Betty: I've got $1.50. Why don't we go and spend our money!

Billy: Well, I was actually saving up for Mum's birthday present.

Betty: Come on, Billy! You can get some more money before your Mum's birthday.

Billy: Well, OK then.

(Billy and Betty appear with a large plastic bag full of sweets.)

Betty: Do you think we should eat them all now, or save some for later?

Billy: Let's eat them all now.

Discussion

1. Why did Betty need self-control in scene 1?
2. Why did both children need self-control in scene 2?
3. Sometimes children want everything they see advertised on T.V., or when they go shopping they want to buy everything in the shop windows or in the advertising catalogues they come across. What is wrong with wanting every new and exciting thing we see?
4. What does the Bible say about this? (Hebrews 13:5)
5. We need self-control when we watch T.V. advertisements, or look at advertising catalogues. Instead of wanting everything, we can have self-control by th_____ God for all He has given us.
6. What does the Bible say about self-control? (Hebrews 13:5)

Wanting the things that others have, is called envy. Another word for it is jealousy. It doesn't just concern wanting things like toys and clothes. We can be jealous of another person because they can do something better than we can. King Saul was jealous because he was not as popular as David was. We can control envy by thanking God for all He has given us, and for making us the way we are.

Activity

Sit in a circle and make up a continuous story about a boy, or a girl, or a family, who wanted every new and exciting thing. The story grows as each person adds a sentence.

Game

1. Cut out 11 large paper squares.
2. Write the 11 letters of the word 'self control', one letter on each square.
3. Tape the paper squares to the floor at various points. Now get a bean bag or ball and set up a game where the children have to take turns to throw the bean bag at a letter. This can be a team game.
4. Draw a line that the thrower must stand on while they are throwing.
5. Scoring: 'S' scores 11 points; 'E' scores 10 points and so on. The player or team scoring the highest total wins.

Aesop's fable: The greedy dog

Once there was a dog that was given a juicy bone for his dinner. He took the bone and ran off with it, in search of a special hiding place. He wanted to find a place where no other dog would take it.

On his way to the special hiding place he crossed over a bridge. As he was running across the bridge he caught sight of another dog in the water. He stopped at once. He noticed that the other dog had a bone even bigger than his own! The greedy dog growled at the other dog, dropped his own bone and jumped into the water, thinking that he could grab hold of the other dog's bone.

Splash! Into the water he fell. There was no dog there after all. He had only been looking at his reflection. As for its own bone, it had sunk to the bottom of the river. The greedy dog went home sadly, with no bone at all.

What kind of bone did the dog have?

Why did the dog want to hide his bone?

What is a reflection?

Who was the other dog in the water?

What would you say to the dog at the end of the story?

Aesop's fable: The golden eggs

One day a farmer went to the market to buy a goose. When he went out to his barn the next morning he found that the goose had laid a golden egg. He called his wife at once. They were both amazed.

"I wonder if the goose will lay another egg tomorrow?" said the farmer's wife.

Sure enough they found another golden egg the next day, and the next, and the next.

"If we save up all the golden eggs we will be rich enough to buy whatever we want," said the farmer's wife, "but with only one egg every day it will take too long. Why don't we kill the goose, cut it open and take out all the golden eggs. Then we will be rich at once."

"What a good idea," said the farmer. He killed the goose and cut her open, but sad to say, there were no golden eggs inside. Now all they had was one ordinary dead goose! How sorry they were for being so greedy.

Questions:

1. What would you say to the farmer and his wife at the end of the story?
2. Who said this?
 - a) "If we save up all the golden eggs we will be rich enough to buy whatever we want."
 - b) "Why don't we kill the goose and take out all the eggs."
 - c) "What a good idea"
3. Complete the sentence: _____
_____, but sad to say there were no golden eggs inside.

God is patient

Self-control is not always about controlling our anger. Sometimes it's about controlling our desire to want things. Wanting too many things is being greedy. If we are patient and content, then we will not want everything we see.

Being greedy could mean:

- E _____ too much.
- S _____ all your money on things you don't need.
- W _____ all the things your friends have.
- Others could _____ out.

Missing words: wanting miss eating spending

How can I have more self-control when I see things I want?

I can remember that Jesus gives me the things I really need.

I must decide which things I really need.

I can be happy with the things I have.

I can be patient, and wait for Mum and Dad to buy me things at the right time.

Introduction

Revise the meaning of "faithfulness".

How would you show faithfulness to your best friend?

How can you serve your best friend?

Story 1: David and Jonathan

King Saul had a son whose name was Jonathan. Jonathan was a brave young soldier. From the moment he met David he loved him. Jonathan admired David's bravery and strong faith in God. Jonathan, being a prince, had fine clothes. Jonathan was a poor shepherd boy and had no fine clothes. Jonathan gave David his fine belt and coat, as well as his sword and bow and arrows. David and Jonathan were like brothers. They promised to be faithful friends as long as they lived.

When King Saul became jealous of David, and could not control his anger, David's life was in danger. Both David and Jonathan knew that King Saul might kill David. Jonathan helped to protect David by warning him of the king's anger. Jonathan thought up a special secret sign to tell David that the king was angry, and that David must hide. This was the sign: Jonathan said he would shoot some arrows in a field, near a certain rock. David must hide behind the rock and watch. Jonathan would take a boy with him to the field to fetch the arrows. If Jonathan shot the arrows to land in front of the boy, then David would know that everything was safe, but if he shot the arrows beyond the boy, the David would know that it would be dangerous to come out from hiding.

At the palace, things were not good. "Why are you friends with David!" Saul shouted at Jonathan. Jonathan knew that he must warn David. The next morning he went to the field with a boy as arranged. He warned David with the special secret sign. David and Jonathan were sad to part. Jonathan went back to the king's palace, while David hurried off to hide in a cave. Although they could no longer be together, they always remembered each other as best friends.

Brainstorm

Jesus had twelve best friends and He was faithful to them all. How did He faithfully serve His best friends?

Write ideas on a large piece of paper. Discuss each idea. Some suggestions could be...

He LOVED them, PROVIDED & PRAYED for them

He TAUGHT them about God

He WASHED their feet

He always did what He said He would do

Jesus continued to be faithful to His friends even after He returned to Heaven. He promised to send the Holy Spirit to help them. When the Holy Spirit came He comforted them and gave them the ability to do great miracles.

Jesus promises that He will be our best friend too if we invite Him into our life. He will be just as faithful to us as He was to His disciples.

Discussion

In the game you needed to listen carefully in order to remember what the master wanted you to do. If we are to understand what Jesus wants us to do, then we must also listen carefully.

What does 'listening to Jesus' really mean?

A master wants his servants to know the right things to do, and to do them well. This is being faithful. Read what Jesus said about being a faithful servant: Luke 12:43.

What does Jesus expect us to do, as faithful servants?

Just as Jesus was faithful to His twelve best friends, the friends, (except for one), were faithful to Jesus.

Story: The faithful friends

Imagine that you are one of the eleven faithful friends. You are feeling sad because Jesus has gone to be with his Heavenly Father. Jesus has told you to tell others about Him, and to heal people in his name, but you don't know how you can possibly do these things. Jesus promised that the Holy Spirit would come and give you power. "How would this happen? What is the Holy Spirit like?" you are thinking.

Then, as you are waiting and praying with the other disciples, it happens. There is a mighty rushing wind. The sound is almost deafening. Then there appear to be little flames of fire on everyone's head, including your own! What is happening? No, your hair doesn't catch alight. It's not that kind of fire. You feel so happy, and just full of God's love.

The wind and fire leave, but you feel different. You are no longer sad that Jesus has gone. You can feel Him right there with you all the time, even though you can't see Him. You are no longer afraid. You want to go and tell others about Jesus. You want to pray for people and help them just like Jesus did. Your friends feel the same way.

All the friends of Jesus are now speaking about Him in the streets and market places, healing people and seeing other miracles. People are being healed and set free from their problems. Thousands of people are becoming followers of Jesus.

However it is not long before there is trouble. It's the religious leaders again. They do not like everyone following this new religion called Christianity. Peter and John have been told not to speak or teach at all in the name of Jesus. But Peter and John cannot keep quiet. "We must speak about what we have seen and heard," they say.

One of the followers called Stephen speaks very boldly about Jesus and even puts down the teachings of the religious leaders. The older religious leaders talk amongst themselves. "This man is always saying things against the old way of Moses. He talks about a new way... that Jesus can forgive sins and there is no need to offer sacrifices any more! We don't like the new way. Let's get rid of him!" they say.

Stephen does not stop talking about Jesus even though he knows what the religious leaders are thinking. It is not long before the religious leaders decide to get rid of Stephen.

Read Acts 8:2-4.

Now all the followers of Jesus are faced with a choice. It is obvious that following Jesus from now on will be very difficult, and very dangerous. If you want to stay out of trouble, then you will have to give up following Jesus. Or, you could choose to be faithful and continue speaking about what you know to be true.

With the other followers, you decide that you will continue to speak about what you have seen and heard. You continue to meet together to pray and sing and learn about God's kingdom, but you now have to do it in secret. You often meet in underground caves so that the Roman soldiers will not find you. On the walls of the caves there appears the special secret sign that shows you are Christians. It is the sign of the fish.

Discussion

Why do you think the early Christians chose a fish for their secret sign?

The early followers did not give up following Jesus, even when it was difficult. When might it be difficult for us to be Christians today?

What can we do when things get difficult?

God has given each person not just one talent, but many. If we are to be faithful servants, we should ask God how we can use our gifts and talents for Him. Our whole life can be a gift to Him.

Story 1: John Flynn

John Flynn believed that God wanted him to become a minister and go the Centre of Australia. It was a time when much of the outback was being opened up for sheep and cattle stations. People had to travel hundreds of miles for medical help. There were also hundreds of people in the outback who had not heard the Gospel, because there was no one to tell it.

John began working in the outback of South Australia in 1911. He travelled over the hot, sandy country in a horse and buggy. He often had to act as doctor, dentist, school teacher as well as preacher.

John knew that people in remote places must have better access to medical centres, or many would die. In his time there were 15 inland hospitals set up, where station people could receive medical help more quickly.

However this was not the complete answer. One day, John was visiting Adelaide and saw an aeroplane.

"That's what we need," he said.

John Flynn now ran a mission, and with the help of others worked towards establishing a Flying Doctor service, so that doctors could fly to visit patients, and patients could be flown to hospital. One of the problems in the outback was the sending of messages. With the help of his friend Alfred Traegar, John managed to develop a pedal wireless, which could send and receive messages, if the people worked the pedals as they used it.

The radio receiver was not just used by people in an emergency, but enabled lonely, isolated people talk with others every day.

Discussion

1. Why did John want to go to the outback?
2. How did he travel in the early days?
3. How did he want to travel?
4. How could an aeroplane help his work?
5. What is the name of the special service he began?
6. How did the people of the outback get messages to John?
7. What were some of the gifts and talents John may have had as a young boy?
8. Why do you think John was so successful?

Story 2: The Three Servants

Read the story from Matthew 25:14-29

Discussion

This story is a parable told by Jesus. Jesus meant the story to have another meaning. It is not just a story about servants receiving bags of money. The hidden meaning is to do with God's servants receiving gifts from Him. The servants received different amounts of money. We cannot measure God's gifts to people in 'amounts', but we can say that God gives people different KINDS of gifts.

To some He gives a gift of music. To others He gives the gift of caring. There are many different ways in which we can serve Him.

Just as the men in the story had to use their money to earn money, Christians should serve God with the talents God has given them. God used John Flynn's talents and multiplied them, so that many more people were reached.

Look again at the talents within the group. How could these be used for God?

Game: Charades

Each person must mime a talent. Others in the group try to guess what it is.

Activity

Arrange a group visit to a hospital or retirement village. Plan ways of using talents within the group to bring happiness to others, e.g. musical items, dance, showing friendship, preparing flowers, gifts, cards.

Interview

Invite a visitor... someone who has used their talents for God, e.g. Christian doctor, nurse or missionary. Conduct an interview with the visitor or ask them to give a short talk about their work.

Introduction

Prepare for a praise party by decorating a 'praise cake'.

This can be a sponge slab. Ice the slab and mark out the letters 'PRAISE JESUS' using 'smarties' or sultanas.

Discussion: What is praise?

We praise someone when they do something well. For example, we clap when someone performs well at a concert. It shows that we appreciate their performance. Imagine a concert with no applause. How would the performer feel?

We need to praise God too, for the great things He has done. It's more than just saying "thanks God" for sending rain, or for giving us food. It's saying, "God, You are wonderful! Everything You have made is beautiful. Lord, You are more powerful than anyone in the whole universe. God, You're great!" Make up a 'praise prayer', telling God how great He is.

Praise party

Blow up balloons and write messages on them to God...

EXAMPLES:

God, You're great!

God, You are mighty!

Everything You make is beautiful, God!

We praise You God for making us!

Decorate the room with the balloons. Prepare for a musical praise time by making flags and streamers on sticks. Find or make percussion instruments. Play percussion instruments or wave flags and streamers during a musical praise time. (Avoid having all instruments playing at once!) Read verses of praise from Psalms between songs.

At the end of the session, eat the 'praise cake'.

Puppet play: Betty's Problem

Billy: What's wrong, Betty?

Betty: I'm not feeling very happy today.

Billy: Why not?

Betty: The boy from next door was rude to me, then he squirted me with his water pistol, and as I was running inside to get away from him I slipped over and got my dress all muddy. Then I went to wash it and spilt the washing powder all over the floor.

Billy: Don't worry Betty. I'll help you clean up the mess... and never mind about that boy next door. Hey Betty! How would you like to come over to my place after we've cleaned up. We can watch T.V. and have some ice-cream... and I'll let you have a lend of my favourite racing car.

Betty: Thanks Billy. You're a real friend.

Discussion

What was Betty's problem?

How did Billy cheer her up?

In being kind to Betty, and helping her to feel happier, Billy was giving JOY. Giving away joy is like giving away a smile. We don't lose it by giving it away.

Joy is one of the fruits of the Spirit. Add this to the fruit tree.

Satan can make us lose our joy. He doesn't like to see Christians happy so tries to steal our joy. However, God has given us a special weapon to fight this kind of attack from Satan. It is the weapon of PRAISE. When we are having a hard time, it helps to praise God for who He is. This is what Paul and Silas did when they were having a hard time in jail.

Story 1: Paul and Silas

Paul and Silas were in jail. They had been thrown in jail for speaking about Jesus. You would think they'd be terribly unhappy. They had their feet pinned down between large blocks of wood. However, in spite of this, they still had joy. They refused to allow Satan to steal their joy.

Find out how they kept their joy. Read Acts 16:25. While they were praising God, a miracle happened. Find out how God set them free. (verse 26)

Story 2: Joy for a crippled man

Another two of Jesus' followers, Peter and John, shared the joy of Jesus with others. They did this by telling others about Him and praying for the sick.

Read about the joy they gave to a crippled man. Acts 3:1-10 (International Children's Bible). How did the crippled man show his joy? (verse 8)

Story 1: Food and water in the desert

God's people were travelling through the desert. It was only three days after crossing the Red Sea. They had been travelling three days with no water. They would have to find water soon or they would die. Moses prayed to God. They came to a place called Marah. There was water here but it was stagnant and smelly. If they drank this water they would probably die anyway.

- Find out what God did. (Exodus 15:25a)

The Israelites had just learned their first lesson. They must trust God even when things seem desperate. They now understood a little more about God's faithfulness. God proved His faithfulness again six weeks later. This time the people were desperately hungry. They forgot about God's faithfulness in the previous water crisis. They started complaining.

- What did they say? (Exodus 16:2-3)
- What did God tell Moses? (verses 4-5)

God provided food for them just as He had promised.

- What food did He provide? (verses 13-16)

Each person was instructed to gather as much as they needed. Some were greedy and disobedient and wanted to gather extra, "just in case God didn't provide tomorrow," they thought.

- What happened to their food? (verse 19)

God also told them that He would not provide on the seventh day as this was a day of rest. On the sixth day they were permitted to gather extra and save it for the next day. Read about this in verses 22-26.

Some foolish people did not believe God.

- What did they do? (verses 27-30)

God has promised to provide for the whole of His creation. Read Job 36:26-31.

Some people in certain parts of the world have too much food, while in other places people have too little. God expects people with too much to share with those who have too little. That is another way God provides...through people!

God can also provide through miracles, just as He did with the Israelites. Here is a story about God's miraculous provision for someone who trusted God.

Story 2: Gladys Aylward

Gladys knew that God was calling her to China.

"You would not make a good missionary!" some people said. "You are not even trained for anything useful, like teaching or nursing."

Living in England fifty years ago, the family was quite poor. Gladys's father was a postman and did not earn very much.

"How can I ever get enough money to go to China?" thought Gladys.

When Gladys was old enough she was able to get a job herself. She saved hard and worked over time. Finally she had enough money for a one-way ticket to China. In fact she had just two pounds over. The ticket to China was not a plane ticket or a boat ticket, but a train ticket. She would have to go overland through Holland, Germany and Russia.

Gladys had heard of an old lady who was working as a missionary in China. Her name was Mrs. Lawson. Gladys decided that she would go to help Mrs. Lawson. As Gladys boarded the train with her two suit cases and just two pounds, she felt excited. The train set off. Gladys had been warned about the war between Russia and China.

"You may not get through, you know," people said. But Gladys didn't worry. God would take care of her.

While travelling through Russia, the train stopped suddenly. It could go no further because the line was blocked due to the war. Gladys got off the train and started walking. After walking many miles carrying her luggage, she was able to catch another train to a busy Russian port. From here she caught a boat to Japan, then another to China. Once she was in China, she had to find Mrs. Lawson. It was another long journey to the inland of China, through wild mountains, on the back of a mule.

Gladys proved to be a great help to Mrs. Lawson, who ran an inn for travellers. As travellers stopped to rest, and water their mules, she would share the love of Jesus with them. She had employed a good Chinese cook, so the inn had quite a reputation for its good food. Each night, before the travellers went to bed, Mrs. Lawson would tell stories from the Bible. Gladys listened carefully to the Chinese language and was soon making good progress. One day, Mrs. Lawson, who was now a very old lady, died suddenly. Now it was up to Gladys to carry on the work.

Gladys soon became popular with the Mandarin. (The Mandarin was like a prime minister.) He asked Gladys to help him stamp out the old practice of foot-binding. For many centuries, the feet of baby girls had been tightly bandaged so that the feet would not grow to their proper size. Small feet were thought to be more attractive. The Mandarin asked Gladys to be the official inspector of feet! This meant visiting the villages and reporting any cases of foot-binding.

It was on one of these visits to the villages that Gladys met a woman who could not afford to look after her child. Gladys took the little girl home and cared for the child herself. Soon

Gladys found that there were many children who had no homes because their parents could not afford to look after them. Soon she had many children to care for.

A war had broken out between China and Japan. It took some time for the fighting to reach the inland, but finally the bomber planes encircled the city where Gladys lived. They came again, and this time dropped bombs on the city. Gladys and her children were not harmed, but she knew that she must flee from the city to a village far away, where she knew of some Christians who could help her look after the children. By this time Gladys was looking after nearly one hundred children.

It was soon obvious that even the village would not be safe. She knew of a centre for homeless children far away beyond the mountains in Siam. She must take them there. They would have to go on foot. The Mandarin, who had now become a Christian, gave Gladys some sacks of rice and two men to carry them. It normally took four days to cross the mountains, but because of the Japanese soldiers, they had to avoid the main road. They would have to pass through difficult terrain.

"It will take you at least twelve days," said the Mandarin.

The children walked and walked, without complaining for the first few days, but then they became tired. The sacks of rice started to get low. Every day Gladys read to the children from the Bible, and they asked God to help them. As the last of their food was used, Gladys knew that God would provide.

"We're hungry!" said the little ones.

"Look, some soldiers!" said Gladys. No, not Japanese soldiers. They were Chinese soldiers who gave the children some food. Soon this food was gone, and they were hungry again. God provided again as they came upon a mountain village.

"Please give us some food," begged Gladys. "The children are hungry."
The villagers gladly supplied them with food.

At last they reached the Great Yellow River. This was the final obstacle before reaching safety. When they reached the river bank they realized that there was no ferry to take them across. The Japanese soldiers had stopped all boats. If they waited here too long they would be discovered. They waited and prayed. Then a Chinese soldier came along.

"What are you doing here with all these children?" he asked.
Gladys explained.

The soldier knew about a secret boat, hidden amongst the reeds on the other bank. The soldier gave a whistle. Quickly and quietly the boat made its way across the river. It collected the children and ferried them to the other side. Once again the Lord had provided for them, and protected them. By the time they reached the town where the children would be cared for, Gladys was very ill. In this town there was a Christian mission hospital where Gladys stayed until she was well again.

It was only because of the Gladys's great trust in a great God, that she was able to take one hundred children on such a dangerous journey, and every one of them was kept safe.

How did God miraculously provide for the people of Israel as they travelled through the desert?

What did the people learn about God as a result of these miracles?

Would you expect the people to have trusted God the next time they found themselves with no food or water?

Do people always trust God even though they know He is faithful?

What does God say about these things in Matthew 6:25-27?

Activity: Trust exercise

Prepare a selection of foods in glass containers.

EXAMPLE

1st glass: lemon juice

2nd glass: breakfast cereal

3rd glass: milk

4th glass: spicy sauce

5th glass: salt water

Establish which foods are liked/disliked. Ask one child to volunteer to be the taster. The taster must wear a blind-fold, and TRUST someone to give him a sample of a pleasant tasting food.

After the exercise, ask the taster whether he/she found it easy to trust.

Why is trusting not always easy?

Can we trust God?

Story 1: Water from a rock

God's people, the Israelites were travelling from Egypt to a special land which God had promised to them. Much of the country over which they travelled was desert. Occasionally they would come across some water. They would drink as much as they needed, and then replenish the supply of fresh water in their skin bags. This time, however, they had run out of water, and there was no water in sight. The people were thirsty. They were also afraid of dying there in the desert. They had forgotten about the time God had provided water for them just three days after crossing the Red Sea. They started complaining to Moses.

"Have we come out here in the desert to die?" he asked.

Moses prayed to God. God spoke back to Moses:

"Take your stick and go to the big rock at Mount Sinai. Hit the rock with a stick and water will come out of it. Then the people and the animals will be able to drink."

Moses did as God had said. Water gushed out of the rock and all the people drank as much as they needed.

When we trust God He always gives us what we need. He never lets us down. God is faithful.

Story 2: Money from a Fish

The twelve disciples travelled around the country with Jesus. They watched Him heal people. They listened to Him tell stories about God's kingdom. Jesus and the disciples needed many things, but Jesus always provided.

The disciples could have worried about food and clothes. After all, they didn't work as fishermen or tax-collectors any more. They didn't go to work each day to earn money. But Jesus told them not to worry. "Your Heavenly Father knows what you need," he said.

Jesus always made sure the disciples had the things they needed. He even provided money to pay their taxes. This was the money everyone had to pay to the king.

One day, a tax-collector came to Peter. The tax-collector said, "Does Jesus pay taxes?"

Peter answered, "Yes, Jesus pays taxes."

Peter went to Jesus to ask about the tax money, but Jesus already knew what Peter was going to ask.

"Go down to the lake," said Jesus, "and do some fishing. Open the mouth of the first fish you catch. Inside the mouth of the fish you will find a coin. Take that coin and give it to the tax-collector. That will be enough to pay taxes for all of us."

Peter did as Jesus said, and sure enough, Peter pulled up a fish with a coin in its mouth. God had once again provided the money that they needed.

Introduction

Look at two contrasting examples of art: one which gives a peaceful feeling, and one which gives the opposite feeling.

Story 1: The Two Artists

Once upon a time there were two artists. Each artist was asked to paint a picture that would best depict the idea of peace.

One artist painted a crystal clear lake in the mountains. There was not a breath of wind, and not a ripple on the lake. The lake, like a mirror, reflected the image of the surrounding trees and mountains.

The second artist painted a picture of a roaring waterfall. Hanging over the waterfall was a great tree branch. Hidden away in a secure part of the limb was a little bird's nest. Inside the nest was a tiny bird, sitting peacefully as the water rushed and swirled below her and the water sprayed around her. Amidst the tremendous roar of the waterfall the little bird sat as if she had not a worry in the world. Her nest was snug and warm, nestled in the strong branch. She knew she was safe.

Story 2: Troubled Times for Jesus' Friends

Jesus called His disciples together. He tried to explain the hard times ahead for them all. Jesus would have to die, but on the third day He would come alive again.

"No!" said His friends. "You do not have to die!" They could not understand it. The thought of losing their best friend was too much for them to bear.

Jesus understood how they felt. He knew that it was going to be hard for them. He also knew that God had a special surprise in store for them .

"Don't let your hearts be troubled," said Jesus. "I am going to leave you, but I won't leave you alone like orphans,"

Jesus explained that He was going to send the Holy Spirit who would help them. The Holy Spirit would help them and give them peace inside. Read John 14:25-27

Activity: Peaceful musical sounds?

Experiment with musical instruments, e.g. triangles, shakers, rhythm sticks. They can be home made, e.g. rubber bands, shakers, water in glasses. Decide which combination of sounds make the most peaceful and harmonious music. Which ones make discords?

Now use percussion to accompany a song in a peaceful way. Choose gentle sounding instruments for peaceful music.

Contrast with loud instruments for upbeat songs. Discuss the difference.

Story 2: Houdini

Houdini was one of history's most famous performer.

"How does he do it?" people would wonder.

One of his most famous acts involved an escape from a sealed box, submerged under water. With his great strength he could break himself free and swim to the surface. His strength was not only in his muscles, but also in his lungs. He could hold his breath under water for an amazing time.

Houdini's success was due to his great strength and superb muscle control. However, there was something else. Houdini had no fear.

Discussion

This story about Houdini teaches us something about trust. Houdini had no fear because he knew that his great strength and muscle control could enable to do amazing things. He TRUSTED in his own great ability. This is why he had no fear.

Fortunately for us, we do not have to trust in our own strength, but we can trust in God who is a mighty God. If we trust in God's greatness we will have no fear.

Story 2: Blonden, the Tightrope Walker

There is a well-known story of a famous tight rope walker called Blonden, who stretched a tight-rope across the great Niagra Falls.

With a crowd of spectators watching in amazement, he proceeded to walk across the tight-rope to the other side. One slip would have sent him falling to his death below.

The crowd cheered as Blonden reached the other side safely. Then, much to everyone's surprise, he walked the rope again, this time, wheeling a wheel-barrow before him. Once again the crowd cheered as he reached the other side safely.

'What will he do next?' the crowd wondered. Then, Blonden stood and called out to the spectators, "Who would be willing to sit in the wheel-barrow and be taken across to the other side?"

There were no volunteers.

Discussion

How do we know the crowd thought Blonden was a great tight-rope walker?

Why didn't anyone trust Blonden's ability to wheel them across safely?

Would you have climbed into the wheel barrow?

This story shows us that even the greatest human skill in the world cannot always be trusted. However, there is someone who can always be trusted. That's God.

We can trust God because He has power and ability greater than any human. When we feel afraid, we should remember that He will never let us down. When we TRUST Him we have peace inside.

Story 3: Jesus Calms the Storm

Read the story from Mark 4:35-41.

Discussion

Do you think the disciples should have had more trust?

Sometimes we don't trust God when we have difficulties, but God wants us to remember that He is TRUSTWORTHY.

Just as Jesus helped the disciples when they were afraid, He can help us too.

Draw a cartoon strip of the tight-rope walker. Include captions to show what people are saying.
